AXIS DEMANDS PEACE IN BALKANS

Draft Foes Concede Defeat In Senate

FIGHT'S NOW UP TO HOUSE, SAYS WHEELER

Opposition Leader Asserts 'We Put Up Best Fight We Knew How.'

TAFT, TYDINGS SCRAP

Heated Words Exchanged By Ohio and Maryland Senate Members.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Opponents of peacetime conscription conceded defeat today as the senate got ready for a final vote on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

Hopes dashed by the chamber's 54 to 29 rejection of a proposal to limit conscription to a time of war or threatened invasion, opposition leaders resignedly told reporters their fight was over.

"We've put up the best fight we knew how," Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) said gloomily. "We did the best we could do. Now it's up to the house."

Only one major proposal stood in the way of a final vote today as the senate began its 13th day of debate—a substitute bill by Senator Maloney (D-Conn) to delay the draft until Jan. 1 while attempts were made to supply the expanded army's manpower needs by voluntary one-year enlistments.

The Burke-Wadsworth measure, on the other hand, would be effective at once if enacted. All men between the ages of 21 and 31 would have to register immediately, and the first contingent—probably of 400,0000—would be selected for service soon afterwards.

Senator Barkley, the Democratic leader, and Wheeler agreed the Maloney proposal was headed for defeat.

Spurred by a new demand late yesterday from President Roosevelt for action on the bill, the senate came to life at a night session after members had spent eight hours twiddling their thumbs and listening to prepared speeches by both foes and backers of the measure.

First, approval was given a proposal specifying exempt state and

Camera Takes a Look Up 'Ghost' Street

This view of Mansfield's "ghost street" was caught by the cameraman yesterday afternoon. A survey of merchants along the street showed that business had dropped off from 20 to 65 per cent since the street was blocked off. This block of Fourth street, between Walnut and Mulberry, is ordinarily one of the busiest of downtown streets, both in pedestrian and motor traffic.

REFUGEE SHIP REACHES PORT AT NEW YORK

800 Americans Aboard Vessel Which Crossed Heavily Mined Waters.

CAPTAIN HIGHLY PRAISED

Overcrowding Complicated By Illness; Two Women Die During Voyage.

NEW YORK — (AP) — After a perilous voyage during part of which death seemed to lurk in every wave, the army transport American Legion arrived in New York harbor today with more than 800 American refugees.

The voyage, which began at Petsamo, Norway, Aug. 16, carried the vessel through mine areas north of Scotland at a time when Germany was proclaiming unrestricted warfare in British waters.

The Norwegian crown princess Martha and her children, fleeing from Scandinavia were taken off the American Legion down the bay by a coast guard cutter. They landed at the Battery, where arrangements had been made to take them immediately to the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Mrs. Florence Jaffray Harriman, U. S. minister to Norway, and a number of other diplomats remained aboard until the vessel docked in Brooklyn.

The royal party was met by Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne Norwegian minister to the United States, and George T. Summerlin, chief of protocol of the state department. At the crown princess' request, there was a minimum of ceremony.

The royal party planned to drive to Hyde Park tomorrow and be the guests of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt until the crown princess can find suitable quarters.

The American Legion was picked up 500 miles at sea by two United States destroyers forming an honorary escort.

Virtually all the 897 passengers were Americans fleeing countries under German and Russian domination.

Statesmen Try To End Dispute Over Territory

Rome-Berlin Interests In Southeastern Europe Menaced By Crisis Between Rumania and Hungary; Russians Battle Carol's Troops.

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Hungary—The Rome-Berlin Axis exerted strong diplomatic pressure today to preserve peace in the Balkans.

Long-standing Balkan territorial differences, fanned by fresh disorders and bloodshed, have reached a crisis menacing the great warring powers' vital interests in the southeast.

Hungarian and Rumanian foreign ministers were summoned urgently to Vienna to confer with Axis statesmen tomorrow in an attempt to force a quick settlement of their dispute over the rich border province of Transylvania.

At the same time the German and Italian ministers to Budapest and Bucharest departed for home carrying detailed reports of a Hungarian-Rumanian frontier incident and a bloody border clash between Rumanian and Soviet Russian troops.

It was the second time the Axis powers had exerted pressure for settlement of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute.

Negotiations instituted at the insistence of Berlin collapsed Saturday when Rumania refused Hungary's demands for return of three-quarters of Transylvania, which Rumania gained from the World war break-up of Austria-Hungary. Both countries have been massing troops along the frontiers.

Yesterday the Budapest government accused a Rumanian pilot of shooting down a Hungarian bomber 18 miles inside Hungarian territory and protested against what it called a "murderous, unprovoked attack."

Bucharest said a reply would be handled "through the regular diplomatic channels." A Rumanian government spokesman asserted the Hungarian plane probably was a craft which he charged had been dropping inflammatory propaganda leaflets over Transylvania.

The unrest caused by strained relations between Budapest and Bucharest was increased by the reports of clashes between Rumanian and Russian troops along the border of Bessarabia, which Rumania ceded to Russia along with northern Bukovina two months ago after an ultimatum from Moscow. The clashes were said to have occurred in Rumanian territory after strong Russian scouting parties had crossed the frontier.

The reports, confirmed by the Soviet legation in Bucharest, said there were heavy casualties on both sides.

Some observers here expressed belief that the German-Italian de-

EXHAUST CITY DAMAGE FUNDS

Sewer Trouble Claims Shelved as Council Hears of Deficit; No Inspector Hired.

Mayor William J. Locke's request for a sewer inspector never got to council last night but several damage claims from water-in-the-cellar trouble did, and they caused a slight stir.

When the claims, totaling $1,238 were presented, it was disclosed that council's claim fund is exhausted. They were filed without consideration on a motion from C. N. Shultz.

Mrs. Mary Somers, 296 Glessner avenue, asked $365 damages; Frank J. Mitsch, jr., 287 Third avenue, sought $373, and C. L. Marmet, 26 Wolfe avenue, ask $500 damage.

All complained of damage to property caused by the sewer water backing up in the basements.

Shultz asked to have the claims filed, calling council's attention to the fact that $800 set up in the annual appropirations at the first of the year was exhausted.

"I have all due respect for these claims," he said, "but we have $700 in claims in the hands of the committee now that can't be paid," he said.

Pointing out that "council used to get by on $200 a year," he added that he didn't think it fair to turn the claims over to the committee which hadn't the money to pay them.

Meanwhile no action was taken

PROBE HAMPERED

Dies Says Committee Needs Funds to Operate.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Dies committee will soon be forced to virtually abandon its investigation of un-American activities unless house leaders sanction an additional appropriation, Chairman Martin Dies (D) Tex., said today.

With its funds rapidly becoming exhausted, the committee plans to reduce its force to a skeleton staff unless aid is forthcoming.

The committee, Dies said, was denied the full request for funds it made when the house early this year continued its life by an overwhelming vote.

"We requested an appropriation of $150,000 and were given but $75,000," said Dies. "A major congressional investigating committee has never had so little money with which to operate as our committee."

Totalitarian System Rejected by Japanese

Premier Declares People and Parties Must Be Bound Together In Strong National Structure.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—One-party totalitarianism and extinction of parliamentary prerogatives as practised by European dictatorships were rejected for Japan by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye today.

He announced, however, that from now on the people and parties of Japan must be bound together "vertically and horizontally" to effect a strong national structure "enabling our 100,000,000 countrymen to fulfill perfectly their duties to the throne."

Konoye set forth his aims in an address to the inaugural committee of the recently-formed Japanese committee to formulate a new national structure.

It had been freely predicted when Konoye took office a few weeks ago that he would institute in Japan a thoroughgoing totalitarian regime, on a one-party basis, possibly reducing the Japanese diet to a "rubber-stamp" organization.

In his address today, however, he made clear that both political parties and parliament would continue to exist and to function, although all must recognize their "essential mission—assistance to the throne."

"The fundamental points of our national structure appear clearly," Konoye said.

"People should be enabled to take part from the inside in establishment of the country's eco-

SWISS ALARMS

GENEVA—(INS)—Two air raid alarms were sounded in Geneva and other Swiss cities last night as British planes flew over Mount Blanc and the Swiss countryside en route to Italy, evidently on another bombing expedition, authorities said today.

The Swiss government already has protested to London several times against aerial violations of Switzerland's neutral territory.

The latest repetition of the British "transgressions"—as they are termed here — further inflamed Swiss public opinion.

McNary Declares New Deal Hampers American Energies

SALEM, Ore.—(INS)—Senator Charles L. McNary rested today at his Fir Cone estate and scanned Democratic criticisms and Republican praises of his speech last evenin accepting the GOP vice-presidential nomination.

McNary, in his speech, said that the Republican party, "cradled in a great tradition and seasoned in government, offers to lead America out of doubt, negation and disunity."

He was warm in praise for his running mate, Wendell L. Willkie, the GOP standard bearer, whom he described as "able, magnetic and forceful."

He never mentioned Mr. Roosevelt by name, although his address was filled with pot-shots at the Roosevelt administration. He said he would not, during the campaign, seek to indict the "motives of the New Deal" despite his assertion that "for more than seven years, we have lingered in a backwater, denying our destiny; neglecting our defenses, both spiritual and material."

"The great energies of America have been hindered — where not actually stifled," McNary said. In a slap at a third term for Mr. Roosevelt, he said:

"The beginnings of Oregon lay in the imagination of Thomas Jefferson, the apostle of democracy, who served only two terms in the presidency, frowning upon contemplation of a third term."

McNary mentioned his Democratic rival for the vice presidency, Henry A. Wallace, whom

MORE GRIEF ON W. 4TH PAVING

Crumpled Mulberry Street Storm Sewer Causes New Snag; Walnut Opened.

While engineers on the West Fourth street paving project ran into more grief at the Mulberry intersection today, traffic congestion was considerably relieved with the opening yesterday afternoon at the Walnut street intersection.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said today that when the surface was ripped off the paving at Mulberry, workers ran into the same storm sewer difficulty that they had encountered at the Walnut crossing. The old tiles, placed close to the surface, had crumbled under the impact of heavy traffic over a period of years.

The tile have been removed and a concrete and brick sluice will be laid in their place. The storm sewer ran along both the east and west side of the crossing. The sluice is covered with corregated iron and the top will be of concrete.

This will delay the work for several days, Crafton said, at that particular location. The sewer is being repaired by WPA labor under the direction of City Engineer W. C. Statler.

Yesterday afternoon the Walnut intersection was opened temporarily to relieve the traffic problem which arose with both the Walnut and Mulberry intersections closed. The Mulberry intersection was closed Tuesday morning against the orders of Crafton.

The Walnut intersection will be closed again for a short period when the work of laying bricks gets under way.

MORE RAIN DUE

Sunny Sky to Cloud Up Again; Crops Getting Lift.

Mansfield had an interlude of clear skies and summery temperatures today between showers last night and more predicted for tonight and Thursday.

The weatherman predicted thunderstorms and little temperature change for Thursday. The reading was 82 at noon today, one degree below yesterday's peak. With a low of 66 this morning, the 84-hour average was six degrees above normal.

Heavy showers last night brought .43 of an inch of rainfall, bringing the precipitation for the past three days to more than an inch.

The rain brightened parched lawns and fields and improved the outlook for late summer crops. Late corn, hay, and potatoes were believed helped most by the showers.

Authorities Probe Explosion That Killed Ten In Coal Mine.

BATES, Ark. —(INS)— Authorities today were unable to explain the cause of an explosion which last night trapped and killed ten miners as they worked 1,700 feet underground in the Bates Coal corporation mine.

Bates is a community of only 175 residents, most of whom work for the coal company.

TERRIFIC: Furious Daylight Air Raids Resumed By Nazis

(By United Press)

LONDON—German air fleets launched a series of terrific daylight raids on southeast coastal areas today, bombing half a dozen towns and apparently striking furiously at British air bases in the southeastern hills.

The German planes, flying from French bases, rained bombs for two hours on the coastal hills (apparently attempting to knock out air bases near Dover), damaged the main shopping center of a town on the Thames estuary below London, and struck at five other towns in Kent and along the southeastern coast.

Preliminary reports said half a dozen German planes had been shot down.

(In Berlin, the official news agency said that devastating German aerial attacks had been made on British war factories at Derby and Birmingham and on naval or dock yards at Southampton and Chatham.)

Six bombs were dropped on a southeast coast town this afternoon when it was raided by about 24 German bombers. Nine saloons, several restaurants, a number of stores and houses were damaged but only one casualty was reported immediately.

The German planes also roared along the southwest coast, causing extensive damage to a factory which was struck by high explosives.

Bombs also were dropped in isolated country districts.

The biggest attack in mid-day appeared to be near a southeast town (apparently Dover) in which newspapermen could see the German planes taking off from France in an almost continuous stream for two hours. The planes bombed the nearby hills from which huge columns of smoke arose in an apparent attack on R. A. F. bases.

REVOLT: Natives of French Colony Join British Forces

(By International News Service)

VICHY, France—The French government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain today announced discovery of a "British-inspired" insurrectionary movement in the Chad region of French equatorial Africa.

In an official communique, the Vichy regime announced that all necessary measures are being taken to cope with the "rebellion."

(Editor's Note—General Charles De Gaulle, leader of the French army in exile, announced in London yesterday that French forces in the Chad area had declared their allegiance to Britain and announced their intention of fighting against Germany and Italy. In Rome, Italian officials minimized the Chad movement.)

Word received in Vichy said that the commander of the French garrison in Chad, a strategically located but jungle-cloaked area in central Africa that abuts upon Libya and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, had made his way to French Africa and made contact with De Gaulle.

Whether the commander actually went to London or merely sent an emissary to De Gaulle was not established.

The Vichy government, however, in an official communique, characterized the Chad movement as an "insurrection" rather than a mere transfer of allegiance and said that proper disciplinary measures would be taken.

The communique bitterly attacked Britain for its allegedly repeated efforts to influence French colonies in Africa. It was recalled that soon after the capitulation of France, Britain offered to take these areas under her protection to further the war against Germany and Italy.

Strenuous efforts are now being made by the British, it was charged, to "incite" the Chad natives to rebellion.

The communique did not disclose the measure planned to cope with the situation.

Willkie Demands Appointment Of Aviation Secretaries

SAYS FAILURE TO FILL JOBS HURTS DEFENSE

Declares Roosevelt Excuse of Economy Not Valid in View of Expenditures.

(By Associated Press)

RUSHVILLE, Ind — Wendell L. Willkie opened his presidential campaign headquarters on Main street today with a demand that President Roosevelt appoint immediately assistant secretaries for aviation in the war and navy departments.

The Republican nominee drove here last night from Indianapolis, stopping at an outlying restaurant in that city to listen by radio to the acceptance speech of his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon.

Following up previous criticism of the administration defense program, Willkie issued a statement saying:

"In connection with my suggestion that there should be created a position in the cabinet for aeronautics, I want to make another suggestion immediately. The president should appoint at once an assistant secretary for air in both the war and navy departments.

"These positions have been vacant ever since the president came into office in 1933. The failure to fill them is in part the cause of the present lamentable situation with reference to our aeronautical development.

"At the time he (Roosevelt) declared he was not making these appointments 'in the interest of economy.' I doubt if in view of the subsequent expenditure of sixty billion dollars by his administration that that is a valid excuse for continuing the vacancies which would cost $24,000 a year to fill."

(In New York, chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Democratic national committee said Willkie's suggestion that a secretary of aeronautics cabinet post be created was "turned down by three Republican presidents" after experts advised against it.)

It was nearly time for Senator McNary's speech when Willkie arrived in Indianapolis from New York and he suggested his party stop for dinner.

"I enjoyed Senator McNary's talk very much," said Willkie. "I thought he made an unusually clear definition of the New Deal's domestic policy. His differentation between that philosophy and the philosophy of the Republican leadership was exactly in accord with my own beliefs."

He told reporters he saw no difference between his views and McNary's on public power development.

On reaching Rushville after an hour's automobile ride, Willkie found a suite of a half dozen rooms at 251½ Main street had been remodeled for his campaign offices. Mrs. Willkie, who had stayed in Rushville, rented an 80-year-old brick house for their occupancy during the early part of the campaign.

California Backs Hiram Johnson In Roosevelt Scrap

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Californians, over-riding President Roosevelt's indictment of Republican Sen. Hiram W. Johnson as neither Liberal nor Progressive, today had assured the 73-year-old isolationist of a fifth term in the senate.

He scored an overwhelming victory in the Democratic, Republican and Progressive party primaries and faced no formidable opposition in the November election.

JACKSON, Miss.—(U.P.)—Mississippi Democrats today returned Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo to the United States senate for another six years.

When officials stopped counting the returns of yesterday's party primary last night, Bilbo had a growing and conclusive lead over his rival, former Gov. Hugh L. White. In Mississippi, the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

Roosevelt Seeks 'Jokers' In Guard Bill

One of Mansfield's city fathers of 30 years ago was honored last night by city council when it adopted his name for a street to be dedicated just east of the new Westinghouse warehouse to be built on East Fourth street. The thoroughfare running from Fourth to Third street will be called Dorian street, after Andrew Dorian, 84 East Third street, still remembered by old timers as the "father" of No. 4 fire station. Legislators recalled that it was through Dorian's efforts in 1910 that the fire house was built while he was councilman of the old Third Ward.

Like the county board of election officials, Clerk of Courts Fred R. Zellner will be glad when the tourist season is over. Scores of requests have been coming to Zellner's office by mail and telephone for birth record information to use in getting in and out of Canada, and Zellner has to pass the requests on to probate court where the records are on file. Zellner estimates he's made enough trips up and down the courthouse steps to the probate court office to add up to quite a journey in itself. The election board has issued hundreds of certificates of registration to would-be travelers in Canada.

DISTRESS CALL

Finnish Merchant Ship Silent After SOS Signal.

NEW YORK —(INS)— An ominous silence today shrouded the fate of a Finnish merchant vessel giving the name of Elle Ofct which sent out SOS last night stating it had been torpedoed and that its life boats and radio had been destroyed.

No longitude were given in the SOS intercepted by Mackay radio but the vessel said it was 311 degrees from Malin Head, on the northern coast of Ireland, and 305 degrees from Port Patrick, on the western coast of Scotland. This would put the ship in the North Atlantic near the north channel to the Irish Sea.

MEET TODAY ON LEVY PROPOSAL

Council Committee to Discuss Proposed Legislation With Mayor, Director.

Members of the city council's finance committee met with administration heads this afternoon to consider several pieces of legislation which will be presented to council at its regular meeting next Tuesday night.

Fred Miller, finance committee chairman, said he had asked Mayor W. J. Locke, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton and City Solicitor Marion D. Ward to meet with his group today to discuss the various phases of the proposed one mill levy. The levy would include funds for extra police and firemen, parks, recreation and city playgrounds.

Council must act on the proposal not later than next Tuesday in order to place the levy before voters at the November election.

The group will also consider a plan of Mayor Locke's to set up an enforcement system for the recently enacted legislation on roof drainage. He has asked funds to employ an inspector to enforce the ordinance which prohibits roof drainage into the sanitary sewer system.

Solicitor Ward informed Locke today that property owners must confirm to the law and that violation constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $50 and costs.

GIVEN SENTENCE FOR LENDING 'RUNAWAY CAR' TO YOUNGSTERS

Edward P. Conell, Oakenwald avenue, who admitted lending four Mansfield youngsters his car to run away and get married, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court.

Judge Anderson suspended 60 of the 90 days, however, on good behavior and on condition that Conell pay the $25.85 expense involved in returning his car to Mansfield from Chicago where the two youthful couples were apprehended.

Another provision of the sentence will permit Conell to serve out his sentence at night so he can continue his work as dishwasher in a restaurant.

Conell, who was held for contributing to the delinquency of minors, readily pleaded guilty, and explained that he thought he was doing the two couples a favor by letting them use his car.

"We were lenient with him because he apparently didn't realize the seriousness of his act," Judge Anderson said.

The four young people, all under 18, were put on probation by Judge Anderson two days ago. They are Rose Fava, 16, of 144 Columbia avenue; John Bachman, 17, of 188½ North Main street; Gene Dute, 16, 18½ Coul street, and Rosie Vetrano, 15, of 223 North Franklin street. A hitchhiker, Joe Asbury, 14, of 113 West Fourth street, who went to Chicago with the others, also was paroled to his parents.

The couples had not had time to carry out their plan to be married when police took them into custody in Illinois last week.

WAR'S OVER

Troops Start Homeward From 'Battle of Wisconsin.'

CAMP McCOY, Wis.—(AP)—The homeward exodus of 60,000 regular and national guard soldiers from the second army maneuvers today jammed highways and railroads in this area.

Nearly 100 truck convoys and 78 railroad trains are being used in moving the troops from Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky and Wisconsin. Units having the farthest to go departed first.

Troop A 22nd reconnaissance squadron of Cleveland scheduled its departure for noon via truck transports. At 6 p. m. part of the 150th West Virginia infantry leave on the first train out of the area.

Continuous streams of trucks will leave the maneuver area until Saturday morning.

After the three-week training period the guardsmen will return to home stations to remain at their armories until the official end of their tour of duty.

SUCCESSOR TO FARLEY PICKED BY PRESIDENT

Postmaster General Keeps Secret on Cabinet Selection.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The White House announced today that President Roosevelt has signed the bill authorizing American vessels to enter European combat zones and remove children from the centers of war.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt has signed the bill authorizing him to mobilize the national guard and other army reserves—a force of 408,000 officers and men—for one year's active service.

(By Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt came to his country home today to check over a vital defense bill and several potential appointments before moving into the south for two Labor day speeches.

As soon as he satisfied himself there were no "jokers" in the measure, the chief executive was expected to sign legislation empowering him to call out the national guard for a year's training in the latest tricks of warfare.

In the appointment line, the president had decided on a successor to James A. Farley as postmaster general before he left Washington yesterday for his Hudson Valley estate.

He confided his choice to Farley, but Farley, who quits the cabinet Saturday for private business, kept the secret.

Confronting the president also were decisions on filling jobs left empty by the resignations of Edward J. Noble as assistant secretary of commerce, and Daniel J. Tobin as an administrative assistant to Mr. Roosevelt.

Noble handed in his commission and announced he would support Wendell L. Willkie, for the presidency. Tobin also turned his in and said he would take charge of the labor division of the Democratic national committee, as he did in 1932 and 1936.

Mr. Roosevelt apparently was undetermined whether to accept recommendations that he reappoint J. Warren Madden to the national labor relations board or heed some critics of the N. L. R. B., who want Madden out. Madden's appointment expired Monday.

The chief executive starts for Chattanooga, Tenn., Sunday. His arrival there Monday morning and an address dedicating the new Chickamaga dam will climax a celebration of the accomplishments of the Tennessee Valley authority.

Another dedication, that of the Great Smoky mountains national park, calls for a speech Labor day afternoon at New Found Gap on the line between Tennessee and North Carolina.

JUNIOR FAIR AID

Bricker Promises Youngsters Better Buildings.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The spotlight shone on Ohio's "big boss of agriculture" at the state fair today.

Manager Win Kinnan said Director John T. Brown would make several speeches in the course of receiving the state's recognition. He also was scheduled to present a silver tea service trophy to the winner of the director of agriculture stakes for two-year-old trotters at the harness races.

The Ohio State Grange and Farm Bureau arranged a busy program and Kinnan predicted an attendance of more than 50,000.

At the half-way mark of the fair attention centered yesterday on the junior fair with Gov. John W. Bricker the principal guest.

After a tour of the junior exhibits the governor pledged "to make the fairgrounds adequate for the needs of boys and girls of Ohio."

He inspected makeshift dormitories, soaked by intermittent rains, in which many of the youngsters were forced to climb ladders to their bunks. The governor promised that he would urge the allotment of funds for new buildings.

George Raft has been suspended by Warner Brothers for refusing to play in the picture they'd assigned him. It'll cost him $30,000. Lowdown is he wanted to be released from his contract to play in a film opposite Dietrich. . . .

The Hedy LaMarr-Woolworth Donahue bonfire is serious—on his part, anyway. He confides to intimates he's more madly in love with Hedy than with any girl he's ever known, which is covering a lot of ground. . . . If Roosevelt is re-elected, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the Supreme court will resign as a protest against the third term. . . . Ted Husing, the ace announcer, and Betty Lawford, famous "bathtub girl" of "The Women," have called the romance off, but in a very pally manner.

The George Jessels must be hunky-dory again. She's wearing a new bracelet that cost $3,500. . . . The picture studios have forbidden their top stars to vacation in Mexico, and Paramount has requested Bing Crosby to cancel his South American tour. . . .

Gabby Hartnett Will Pilot Cubs In '41

By SID FEDER
(AP Sports Writer)

THE sizzling Yankees and Cardinals are nearer the top today, but the best news on the sports page is that Gabby Hartnett will be back bossing the Chicago Cubs next year.

Hartnett has been a ballplayer's ball player for 19 years. For the last three, he's been running the Cubs.

He hasn't done so well the last couple of seasons, and you heard rumors that the Cubs were getting ready to brush him off. But Phil Wrigley settled the thing yesterday. He admitted he wasn't too pleased with the Cubs' showing, but Gabby, he said flatly, will be back next year.

Then the Cubs went out and knocked off the New York Giants, 3-1, behind the seven-hit hurling of Work Horse Claude Passeau in one of three major league games that got by old man weather.

This decision, coupled with the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-3 victory over the Boston Bees, shook up the National league standings. The Cubs went into a tie with Pittsburgh for fifth place, the Giants dropped to fourth and the red-hot Cards went into third.

Martin Marion's first major league homer proved the winning run for the Cards over Jim Tobin. Bob Bowman had a shutout until the eighth, when the Bees scored all their runs and Clyde Shoun came in to put out the fire.

* * *

The only American league tussle saw the New York Yankees nip the White Sox 5-4 on a tenth inning run sent home by Babe (batting average .263) Dahlgren's single. The victory boosted the Yanks to 2½ games for second-place Detroit and 5½ from the Cleveland Indians, both of whom were given a holiday by weather.

Ohio Draws Battle Line For All-Ohio World Series

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's baseball fans, split geographically in their allegiance to the Cleveland Indians and the Cincinnati Reds, are girded for battle. But the attacks and counter-attacks won't reach full force until the two Ohio teams clinch world series places.

* * *

The line of demarcation seems to run just north of this capital city. Columbus itself is about two to one for Cincinnati.

The Reds have the "solid south" behind them and there's nary a fan in the northern counties who wouldn't stake his dollars on the Indians.

Aside from Detroit support in the Toledo area and Pittsburgh followers in the East Liverpool-Steubenville zone, Buckeye fans are committed solidly to one or the other of their "home" teams.

They've waited a long time, these Cleveland and Cincinnati fans, for the first all-Ohio world series.

The closest thing to an official test happened back in 1917 when the two clubs played a post-season series.

* * *

Rube Bressler, former Cincinnati player, recalls the Reds won the set, beating Pitcher Jim Bagby in one of his best years.

All-Stars Out To Sweep Series

The Y. M. C. A. Commercial league All-Stars will be out to show the Moose lodge championship Commercial league team how softball is played when they go after the third straight contest over the Moose in a game scheduled for 7 p. m. Thursday at the Fairgrounds.

* * *

The game will be played as part of a double-header, with the Mansfield Braves meeting Fostoria in an Ohio State league contest in the second half of the twin bill.

* * *

Wednesday in the last two games played by the two teams in their nine game series the All-Stars will be out to make it three straight with Warren Gross as their pursuit pitcher. Frances Bunch is expected to be on the mound for the Moose aggregation.

Clubs Tangle In Church Loop Tilt

Rained out yesterday, the First Congregational and First Lutheran softball teams will try again today to open play in the Y. M. C. A. Church league championship playoff.

The contest is scheduled for 6:15 at the North Lake park diamond, and is the first of a three-game series. The Lutherans are champions of the first round, and the Congregationals defeated the St. Johns Episcopal nine Monday evening to annex the second round championship.

PIRATES TOP TIGERS

Collecting a total of 15 hits, the Mansfield Pirates swamped the Pavonia Tigers 11 to 0 in a softball game played yesterday at the Union high school diamond in Weller township. B. Schnug working on the mound for the Pirates held the Pavonia nine to three hits. Jack Hammett was the Tigers pitcher.

Feller Pitches Today; Dodgers Tackle Redlegs

Bobby Hurls With Day's Rest; Play Under Floodlights.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Bobby Feller begins to look like the hub of Manager Vitt's new double-duty pitching plan to put the pennant in the Indians' hands.

The young speedballer will take the mound tonight after only a day's rest from a relief hurling stint as the Tribe opens a two-game series with the Athletics.

Feller finished for the Indians Monday as they snapped a four-game losing streak with a 4 to 3 victory over Washington. Vitt later disclosed he sent his ace to replace Mel Harder under a new plan whereby the club's five top pitchers would be used in both starting and relief roles during the stretch drive.

Opposing Johnny Babich, Feller will be after his 23rd victory.

Rain yesterday washed out the rubber game of the Washington series. The game will be made up in a doubleheader at Cleveland Sept. 18.

* * *

Al Smith will hurl the opener of a three-game series at Chicago Friday night. Al Milnar is slated to start the final game at Philadelphia tomorrow, winding up Cleveland's last eastern tour of the season.

Redlegs Not Worried About Brooklyn In Last Series With Club.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Brooklyn's in town again, so what?

The situation is a little different from the last time. Nobody's even calling it a crucial series, although the Dodgers seem to be about the only thing between the Cincinnati Reds and their second straight National league pennant.

Somehow Cincinnati fans have taken the Reds' 1940 progress with incredible calm. This time last year otherwise industrious adults were disputing with their children over such items as whether Ernie Lombardi hit a spinner or a high, hard one for his latest home run. Tots in danger of flunking first grade arithmetic could tell you offhand how many balls and strikes Paul Derringer threw in that game week before last.

It may be complacency. Maybe the fans are right—that the Reds are in and the rest of the season is a formality necessary to bring in sufficient revenues to meet the payroll.

Whatever it is, nobody's steamed up over Brooklyn coming to town even though the team arrived by airplane.

Blues Moving Toward Title

Kansas City Holds Seven-Game Lead in Race.

(By Associated Press)

The Kansas City Blues are moving along in high gear again toward a second straight American association pennant.

Last year the Blues crushed the opposition to the tune of 107 victories as against 47 defeats. At present reading they already have lost 47 while winning 84. However, they still have a chance of getting 100 victories.

* * *

A year ago Kansas City finished eight games ahead of second-place Minneapolis and now they have a seven-game edge on Columbus in second.

The Blues racked up a double triumph last night to gain a full game on Columbus, beating Toledo 4 to 3 and 5 to 4.

Columbus split two games with Milwaukee. Harry Brecheen notched his 14th victory in pitching the Birds to a 7 to 5 victory in the opener. The Brewers won the second, 6 to 5.

* * *

Indianapolis at St. Paul and Louisville at Minneapolis were rained out.

Metz Leads Field

Tops Pros in PGA Qualifier With 140; Shute Operated For Appendicitis.

HERSHEY, Pa. — (AP) — The 1940 professional golf championship boiled down today to a series of two-man duels.

Sixty-four players shot 154 or better Monday and yesterday to qualify for match play. Dick Metz, of Oak Park, Ill., won the medal with 69-71—140, five above the 36-hole mark for this 7,017 yard course but remarkable because of rain, mud and cold.

Defending Champion Henry G. Picard, who as home pro holds most of the records on this layout, was third with 73-69—142.

Denny Shute, twice pro king and former British open titlist, qualified again for the jinx club. He turned in a creditable 151, then admitted he had played all day with an ache, was examined by a physician, rushed to a hospital and operated for appendicitis. The surgeon, Dr. David A. Johnston, said Shute was in "as good a condition as can be expected."

Six Ohioans remained in the running. Their scores and today's opponents:

NEW YORK—(AP)—It will cost the national football league more than a million dollars to operate next season. . . . Attention, Henry Armstrong: The N. B. A. is getting ready to strip you of your title if you haven't signed to fight a leading welter by Sept. 9 when their convention opens. . . . The Yankees say old Ted Lyons didn't make one false move in shutting them out last Sunday..

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Lynn C. Doyle, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Judge Landis ordered full salary for the umps who had the row with Burleigh Grimes and fined the league that fired him. . . . There he is, taking the edge off Oklahoma City's 'be kind to umpires movement.'"

At Saratoa Monday, Fred Keats, the Daily Mirror's demon handicapper, picked the winners of all seven races on the card. A $2 parlay on his selections and you would have gone home with $6,446.52 in your kick. Up at Dartmouth, Red Blaik and Fats Ellinger are very low because they've just heard Dick Kerzting, counted on for center, is going to stay in Oxford, Ohio, and enter Miami U.

HI, CHUBBY

Suppose you read that Chubby Dean
Has reappeared upon the scene.
And take it straight from Connie Mack—
He's mighty glad to have him back.

Ellsworth Vines believes he can win the National Amateur golf title within two years. . . . No football has not been abolished from Stagg Field, Chicago. University officials are lining up schedule of high school games to replace the now defunct Maroons. . . . New York papers are giving Leo Durocher three cheers for taking the rap for Medwick's slump—Leo says he put Joe back in there too soon after being beaned.

STILL THE TOPS.

Wes Ferrell is no longer in the Majors, but his popularity with the gals lingers on. . . . Last spring we took a good-natured crack at Wes and got letters from a dozen Washington babies raking us over the coals. . . .The other day we reported Wes was about to get married and since then his admirers in Cleveland, Detroit and Medford, Mass., have been heard from telling us how disappointetd they are.

New Racquet?

Tennis Star Welby Van Horn, fourth ranking in U. S. amateur net circles, has hopes of breaking into a new racket, the baseball game. Welby wants to be a pitcher and already has been given a tryout with the Boston Red Sox. The results were not announced, but the youth comes from a baseball family and his tennis swing is terrific.

SIMMS, WALKER CLASH IN BOUT AT CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Eddie Simms of Cleveland will clash with Jack "Buddy" Walker, hard-hitting Columbus negro, tonight. Simms put Walker on the floor in the first round of a previous encounter only to have the decision go against him.

Extra-Heavy Race Program

Rain Forces Postponement Of Scheduled Events.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—With four events held over from Tuesday's card which was curtailed by rain, an extra-heavy program was scheduled for the harness race events at the Ohio State fairgrounds today.

The feature event of the card will be the 2-year-old trot for Ohio-owned horses with a $1000 purse going to the winner along with the John T. Brown trophy. Other events on the program is the 2:15 pace, with a purse of $2000; the 2:20 pace, $1000 purse and the 2-year-old pace which will be run in two divisions.

A purse of $500 for each division will be at stake with the Peninsular farms and the state highway patrol trophies as extra gifts.

Harry Short continued to dominate the program Tuesday as he sent Gallant Heart, owned by H. T. Fulton, of Upper Stewjack, N. S., home in front in both heats of the 2:13 and 2:12½. Earlier, Short had piloted Weetamoe home in front in the 2:15 trot—the third heat of which was postponed from the day before.

Honors in the first division of the 2:23 trot were split as Acrasia captured the first heat and Thelma Hanover the second.

* * *

Scotty Volo, owned by Marvin Thornton, of Akron, and driven by Earl Roush, of Canton, took all three heats of the 2:17 pace and also chalked up the day's best time at 2:09½ in the middle heat.

SENATORS, YOUNGSTOWN DIVIDE LEAGUE CONTESTS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(AP)— Charleston and Youngstown traded punches in their Mid-Atlantic double-header last night Charleston taking the first game 3 to 0, and losing the nightcap, 7 to 0.

Canton and Akron were rained out of a double-header. In the other game Portsmouth went 10 innings to win from Dayton, 4 to 3.

MATCHES SCHEDULED TODAY

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Postponed for the second consecutive day because of rain, the final match of the National Intercircuit polo championships, between the Blue Bell club of Philadelphia and the Seven-Eleven team of Chicago, was to be played this afternoon, weather permitting.

Nine Ohioans Qualify for National Amateur Golf Meet

(By Associated Press)

NINE Ohioans pocketed player tickets for amateur golfdom's greatest show—the National tournament—today after testing their skill over water-logged, wind swept courses.

Seven Buckeye representatives in the tourney at Mararoneck, N. Y., Sept. 9-4 were selected from 6 contenders at Cleveland Kirtland and 33 at Cincinnati Camargo. The other two qualified at Pittsburgh and Huntington.

Eddie Meister of Cleveland topped the field of 16 competing in the Lake city qualifier with 73-69—142. Six strokes behind with 73-73—148 was Dan Carmichael of Columbus. Third place went to Tom Whiteway of Cleveland. His score was 78-73—151.

Maurice J. McCarthy of Cincinnati, former city and state amateur champion, was the medalist at Camargo for the second straight year, but even he was three over par with 71-72—143.

McCarthy's closest competition on the rain-swept layout came from Jack Wood of Cincinnati, who won second place with 76-70—146.

The other qualifiers at Cincinnati were William Durrant of Columbus, 74-76—150; Skee Riegel of Glendale, Calif., 77-73—150; and Bill Roach of Cincinnati, 75-76—151.

Henry Pabian of Steubenville shot 80-74—154 for fourth place to qualify at Pittsburgh Allegheny. Everson Hall of East Liverpool, O., failed to qualify with 76-82—158.

At Huntington, Dan B. Cawley of Marietta won the second of three allotted places with 74-74—149.

Not all the nation's best amateur golfers were competing yesterday when more than 700 players sought to qualify. Ten drew automatic exemption because they had won the title in previous years. Still it would take a lot of sharpshooting to beat the kind of golf yesterday's leaders played.

Practically all the nationally famous players who were required to play through the sectional tests were steady enough to qualify. The most notable failure was Charley Yates, 1938 British amateur champion and Walker Cup star. He shot rounds of 77-72—149 at Atlanta and took only the first alternate's berth, three strokes away from the sectional limit.

The leading scorers were Bobby Dunkelberger of high point, N. C., Jack Shields of Tulsa and Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, who shot the 141's.

STEEL SHARES SLANT UPWARD IN STOCK MART

Prods Other Groups Into Reluctant Advance; Bonds Try to Climb Today.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Steel shares slanted upward in the stock market today, prodding other groups into a reluctant advance.

Bonds also tried to climb in slow trade. Commodities were mixed.

Encouraging business statistics and absence of selling in appreciable volume lately appeared to make traders more willing to try the buying side for a turn.

Market followers noted reports of a late August spurt in retail trade, accompanying the expansion of war industry and factory payrolls.

How much the nation's purchasing power has increased this year was measured by the department of commerce's estimate of a gain of more than $2,000,000,000 for individual incomes in the first seven months over the comparable 1939 period.

The nation's income was figured to be running at the rate of $73,000,000,000 annually, the highest since 1930.

Broadening of the market for new corporate financing was indicated by an offering of $25,000,000 Celanese Corp. Debentures. Linked with the increase of industrial capacity for defense needs was a move by Dow Chemical to raise $25,000,000 for enlargement of its output of magnesium, used in airplanes.

federal officers. Then with a minimum of debate, like action followed on a provision by Senator Pepper (D-Fla) to prevent employers from discharging men who might later be called to military service.

Senator Wagner (D-NY) succeeded in winning adoption of a provision requiring employers to pay back wages to an emloye who was forced to get his job back by court action after his training period had ended.

Then Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) rose to propose the elimination of peacetime conscription.

Senator Adams (D-Colo.) was quickly on his feet to observe if Walsh's amendment was defeated it meant that "young men may be inducted into the military service even if there is no imminence of war."

That was right, Walsh agreed, and it was on that basis the senate voted to reject it.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) then took the floor with his substitute —the establishment of an army training corps to be filled by voluntary enlistments. Conscription supporters swept this aside from a 55 to 22 vote.

Before the vote, Taft and Senator Tydings (D-Md) exchanged heated words.

The easterner, supporter of the conscription bill, said it would be impossible to provide men needed for training without compulsory measures.

Taft protested that Tydings was 'trying to confuse training and the draft—two different things." The Ohioan argued that congress had "never tried" a training program and insisted that voluntary enlistments would provide all the necessary men, if length of enlistments were shortened and monthly pay increased.

"Just a minute, just a minute," Tydings yelled at Taft. "I-ve listened to you, now you listen to me a minute."

The Maryland senator said voluntary enlistments had failed to provide needed men during the World war and would fail again if this country were involved.

Taft and Senator Donahey (D-Ohio) both voted for a senate-rejected amendment to make compulsory training under the Burke-Wadsworth bill operative only in time of war or threatened invasion.

Later Donahey joined with the majority to defeat Taft's amendment.

ALIENS FLOCK TO POSTOFFICE

Registration Off to Good Start; Scores Apply For Forms Here.

Alien registration got off to a good start in Mansfield yesterday and today, with Postmaster H. E. Homberger predicting that the 200 mark might be reached by the close of the day in the number of applications for registration blanks.

Eighty-six aliens applied for the blanks yesterday and more than 60 applications had been handed out by the postoffice authorities at noon today.

Throughout the state, hundreds of aliens lined up at their local postoffices to secure their application blanks. In Cleveland it was estimated that a 1,000 were registered on the first day

All were "anxious and willing to co-operate," Postmaster Homberger observed today. And apparently the same was true throughout the nation yesterday.

In Washington, it was reported that some had lined up 10 hours before the office opened. Others brought their own interpreters in cagerness to co-operate.

According to Mansfield postoffice officials virtually every alien had some word of praise for the new law. Many said that they were whole-heartedly in favor of registering, and wished that it had come earlier because it would have prompted them into taking out citizenship papers.

The registration will continue until Dec. 26, but Postmaster Homberger urged today that aliens come into the postoffice as soon as possible to get their application blanks, so that registration will not interfere with the Christmas mailing rush.

OHIOANS SEEK SENATE'S AID ON WATERWAYS

Carry on Last-Ditch Fight Opposing Wheeler-Lea Transportation Act.

By EARL BERKLEY
(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Ohioans opposing the Wheeler-Lea transportation bill are carrying on a last-ditch fight for senate rejection of a house-approved conference report.

They are asking individual senators to help prevent final congressional approval.

The group, representing waterway shippers, objected specifically to provisions putting river transportation under control of the inter-state commerce commission.

O. Slack Barrett of Cincinnati, a leader in the fight, declared house acceptance of the conference report "struck a death blow" against water carrier transportation "and the economies and benefits it provides the public."

This blow, he added in a statement, was intensified by a "hidden provision repealing a section of the Panama Canal act which prohibits railroads from owning and operating competing water carriers."

"It may be stated with all sincerity that if the Wheeler-Lea bill, in its present form, becomes a law, it will destroy our great inland waterway systems and will represent the greatest single threat to the carrying out of our national defense program."

Barrett, president of the Mississippi river carriers association whose members include carriers of the Ohio valley, said the law prohibiting railroads from owning competing water carrier lines was enacted as a result of "aroused public opinion over the practice of railroads of driving water carrier competition into bankruptcy by starting and operating competing water lines at costs which drove legitimate operators out of business."

"When this was accomplished," he added, "the railroads retired from the water transportation business and increased their freight rates in the areas affected. Since the railroads have been prohibited from their ruthless and destructive practices, water transportation has developed to such an extent in the United States that it possesses today probably the finest system of inland waterway transportation in the world.

"Hundreds of millions of dollars have been invested. Farm products have been provided with absolutely necessary lower cost transportation which has opened up new markets and brought prosperity to great areas that were previously bankrupt or fast becoming so.

"For years the railroads have endeavored under the guise of regulation to restrict water carrier transportation."

AS WASHINGTON RAISED AN ARMY

Poster Reveals General's Plea For Volunteers.

BAKER, Ore.—(AP)—Lee Wright discovered a yellowed placard in an old barn inviting young men to join the army—the army of General George Washington. It read:

"To all brave, healthy able-bodied and well-disposed young men in this neighborhood who have an inclination to join the troops now raising under General Washington for the defense of the United States against the hostile designs of foreign enemies."

It offered $60 a year in gold and closed with the words "God Save the United States."

RESCUER SAVES 629 IN CAREER

Pittsburgh Man Devotes Life to Preserving That of Other Persons.

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— George McClellan, who is devoting his life to saving the lives of others, has rescued 629 persons from violent death, and earned the title of "Life-Saving Gus," in 15 years of rescue work at fire and mine disasters, river tragedies, and similar disasters throughout the area.

A former Pittsburgh fireman, McClellan resolved to make life-saving his hobby when he saw eight of his fellow fire-fighters fall into a tank of burning oil while fighting a refinery blaze, 15 years ago.

Since then, he has accumulated more than $2,000 worth of equipment, including a combination pulmotor-inhalator, several respiration boards and 29 usable and experimental smoke and gas masks.

He is considered expert in artificial respiration technique.

Unemployed at present, McClellan refuses all offers of pay for his work by explaining:

"I don't expect pay for my services. There is enough compensation in knowing you have saved a life—in talking and laughing with a person given up for dead."

Altar-Bound N. Y. Couples Herded By Police Detail

NEW YORK—(AP)—Extra police were called in to keep order yesterday as more than 1,500 altar-bound young couples stormed the five marriage license bureaus of New York City.

The current rush to marry has kept pace with congressional action on the selective service bill, but prospective bridegrooms questioned today denied they were hurrying into wedlock to escape the draft.

Biggest rush was at the Brooklyn bureau where approximately 1,200 couples tried to get licenses, some showing up at 6:20 a. m. A sergeant and two patrolmen were on duty, but by 9 o'clock, the situation was out of hand, and the sergeant called for help.

Another sergeant and 13 patrolmen arrived. After a half-hour struggle with the crowd, they turned 300 couples away, telling them to come back another day.

Duchess' Clothes Sent to New York For Dry Cleaning

NEW YORK—(AP)—All the way from Nassau, the Bahamas, to a cleaning establishment in Manhattan Friday came a bundle of clothes from the Duchess of Windsor.

The package, labed "her royal highness," arrived on the steamship Acadia. Customs authorities, noting that the gowns were not declared on the ship's manifest, held them at the pier until a steamship official posted $500 covering bond.

Then the package was rushed uptown, where a crew of cleaners worked late into the night on the garments.

A few minutes before the Acadia sailed again yesterday, a representative of the cleaners dashed breathlessly back to the pier, the customs passed the bundle and her highness' gowns were Nassau bound.

SYNOPSIS

As Carol Tallant, trained nurse and daughter of a physician, is looking out the window of her Newton home, she is startled by the crash of two automobiles and dashes to the street She holds an unconscious girl in her arms as Norman Alexander of New York, driver of one of the cars, hurries to a hospital, following Carol's directions There she learns that the girl, who is suffering only from shock, is the wealthy glamorous Edwina Burke, whose marriage five years before to Alan Harding, Carol's fiance, ended in divorce. Norman, greatly relieved when he learns Edwina is not seriously injured, tells Amy Durfee, superintendent o nurses, that he had been racing Edwina all the way from New York and blames himself wholly for the smash-up when his car struck hers from behind. Amy evidently has a great personal interest in Edwina. She reassures Norman and as he leaves with Carol thinks: "The luck of the Irish — Edwina Burke, back home at last, and bound to have the good-looking Norman interested in her. "He tells Carol he is going to spend the summer in Dick Fenton's bungalow in the hills, Newton's aristocratic section, and laughingly asks if she will pass him cigarettes through his cell bars. Carol comparing Norman with Alan, who overcoming early handicaps, is now a promising young attorney, can't help thinking of his short-lived marriage to Edwina. She dismisses Norman from her thoughts when she reaches home and finds Alan in the garden with Dr. Tallant who is cutting roses for the dinner table.

CHAPTER III

In the cool dining room, with the blue walls and the good Chippendale pieces, conversation did not languish. Carol, wearing a white silk frock that accentuated her fairness and her engagement ring, a beautiful square-cut diamond, looked proudly from her father to Alan as Mr. Tallant boasted his best shot of the day and Alan admitted that it was the toughest hole on the country club links. For nothing, she thought, would she exchange this —her father's devotion and contentment and Alan's stable love for her and hers for him. Poignant was her own happiness and contentment, hoped for, fought for, and so deeply appreciated And the years that stretched ahead were charted and certain, years to be met unafraid

"What are you children doing tonight?" Dr. Tallant asked "I'm playing bridge with the Watsons an' Tom"

Alan asked, "Is the tournament still going on?"

"Neck and neck. Looks as if it'll go on all summer. Ring for Rosie, please, Carol. We're ready for our strawberry shortcake and coffee."

Sitting back in the chair, he folded his thin tine hands on the edge of the table. "Life is very pleasant for the three o. us, isn't it? We're extraordinary fortunate. Most of the people one meets seem to be going around in circles, no plan to their lives, no goal, nothin strong to hold to. At certain newspaper headlines they throw up their heads and cry 'What's the use?

He glanced gravely at the top of Carol's shining head. "My life was a series of mistakes until Carol persuaded me to come here and I learned to be content with simple things. We could breed a happier race if we could take envy and fear out of our natures." At the sight of Rosie he laughed his quiet laugh. "You're just in time, Rosie. I've turned rural philosopher again"

When he left, Carol and Alan went into the living room where bright chintz covered the old upholstered pieces. Alan sank into a chair and lighted his pipe; Carol went to the petit point footstool beside the radio, sat down and turned the dial to a program of soft music. When she looked at Alan, he was looking at her. There was so much of what he felt he did not say, she thought, but he knew, the touch of his hand, his unfailing smile circle of dream in their intimacy they alone understood

"Would you like to go out tonight, Carol? We haven't made any plans had we?

"No plans and I don't think of any place I'd rather be than here with you."

"So is me. Well go for a ride [illegible]

AXIS DEMANDS BALKAN PEACE IN NEW CRISIS

Statesmen Try to End Dispute Over Territory Following Fresh Disorders.

-sire for speedy settlement of the Rumanian-Hungarian dispute was inspired by anxiety less Russia take advantage of the situation to extend herself further in the southeast.

Official sources in Berlin and Moscow have repeatedly denied, however, any anxiety over possible conflict of their respective interests in the Balkans.

A Rome announcement said that the Axis ministers "invited" the smaller powers to Vienna "to discuss questions of common interest.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, is expected in informed Rome circles to advise the Hungarians to proceed cautiously in their attempt to regain Transylvania from Rumania.

Confidence that Hungary would agree to a peaceful settlement was expressed by the Rome newspaper Corriere Padano which said:

"Hungary in any event having borne its fate for two decades will refrain from exposing the peace to danger now that justice has found a way."

After Russia won Bessarabia and northern Bukovina from Rumania in June the Hungarians showed a determination to regain Transylvania, but Germany and Italy persuaded them then to stay quiet.

Hitler, Ciano Discuss 'Affairs'

SALZBURG, Germany —(AP)— Fuehrer Hitler received Foreign Minister Count Ciano of Italy at his Obersalzburg mountain chalet this afternoon.

Hitler and Ciano discussed "current affairs," said DNB, official German news agency.

Offer Guidance For Appeasement

BERLIN —(AP)— Foreign Ministers Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany and Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy are meeting today at Salzburg for a "preliminary discussion" to a four-power conference on Rumanian-Hungarian differences, authorized sources said.

These sources denied vigorously that Germany and Italy intend to "arbitrate" the peace-threatening dispute over Transylvania, but said they would offer guidance to a real appeasement in that part of southeastern Europe.

The official version was that Ribbentrop and Ciano would "anhalten" both sides—which means to hold them to a given task until a concrete result is achieved.

Presumably the purpose of the conference was to state concretely why exaggerated claims of the two sides fail of Axis approval and why concessions would be welcomed.

Apparently each was to be given an opportunity once more to state its case, and then Ribbentrop and Ciano were to take the floor.

The Hungarian and Rumanian foreign ministers have been called to confer with Axis statesmen at Vienna tomorrow and Nazi leaders expressed conviction the territorial dispute between the two Balkan countries must be settled speedily to avert incidents which might impair the German-Italian war effort.

Pending fresh developments on the British war front, news of the impending Vienna conference was the chief source of interest in official circles in Berlin.

The capital had its third air raid alarm in as many days early this morning, but the all-clear signal was sounded after four minutes and an official announcement later said the warning had been sounded by accident through a mechanical disturbance.

German coastal batteries fired on two British submarines in the English channel, and probably sank them, a German communique said.

A British air raid on the naval base of Kiel resulted in the damaging of a number of vessels in the docks, the high command said.

One submarine reported the sinking of 28,850 tons of merchant shipping space.

M'NARY LASHES AT NEW DEALERS

Says Administration Hampers Energies of American, Praises Wallace.

he called a "high-minded and sympathetic secretary of agriculture."

McNary, making a vigorous fight for the nation's important farm vote, attacked the New Deal's agriculture policy.

"A substantial solution of the farm problem," he said, "may be resolved into a question of markets. Any rational plan must assign the American market to the American farmer. Besides being far and away the greatest market it is the only one we may hope to control.

"The farmer is, at least, entitled to that and no treasury benefits can compensate him for his loss.

"Yet the New Deal, which in seven years has failed to map out a long-range plan for reconstituting the agricultural empire, piles confusion upon confusion by following two contradictory policies at once.

"With one hand, the New Deal pays farmers not to sow and reap; with the other, it lowers tariff barriers so that foreign crops undersell our own in our market."

Wallace, McNary said, may not be blamed for this second policy. He added any secretary of agriculture would be hampered by the New Deal's reciprocal trade system.

McNary then assailed the New Deal reciprocal trade treaties, saying:

"When I spoke against their renewal last spring in the senate I charged that the treaties had failed to 'dissipate, alleviate or liquidate the uneconomic conditions' affecting agriculture. I hold to that opinion still.

"Moreover, as the war spreads the areas of closed trade I gravely fear that the effects on agriculture may grow worse and we have no assurance that peace will restore foreign markets for our surpluses."

DEFENSE WEAK, AIRFIELDS AID

Commercial Ports Only Point In Favor of South American Military Operations.

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES—Military analysts familiar with South America's defenses are convinced that if danger threatens the western hemisphere the United States must be called upon to guard South as well as North America.

Even the Argentine, which so far has outstripped her neighbors in modernizing an army and navy, lacks so many essentials of armament that experts believe she would be hard-pressed to protect her own 1,500 miles of coast from foreign assault.

Perhaps the brightest spot in the defense picture is the long string of great, new commercial airdromes—expected to be ready for service late this summer—stretching north through Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, to link with air fields of the United States.

Developed for use by Pan-American Air Line's Buenos Aires to United States service, the fields were built to handle huge four-motor transports. That means they could be used by the heaviest United States bombers as flight bases in any South American emergency.

The new airdromes at Buenos Aires, Rio De Janiero, Paramaribo in Netherlands Guiana, Port of Spain on the British island of Trinidad, and San Juan, Puerto Rico, would be convenient stepping signs for the United States bombing planes to danger spots on the eastern coast of South America.

What extent, if any, United States officials have arranged with South American nations for ... use of the fields has been kept secret.

The mayor said yesterday that he would ask council to appropriate $600 for hiring an inspector to see what could be done about removing illegal roof drains connection from the sanitary sewers.

City officials have contended that part of the trouble of flooded basements is the result of the tremendous amount of roof water draining into the sanitary sewer system.

nomic and political policies, and at the same time these policies should reach all peripheries of our national life.

"A definite national movement is necessary for successful realization of this national structure. The movement should spring from the people themselves. If it is planned or guided by the government it may hinder spontaneous manifestation of the people's energies."

The government, however, he added, has found it essential to take "positive steps for fostering and directing this movement."

With regard to political parties, Konoye said it was unfair to condemn them simply because they comprise separate elements in the national life.

"But it cannot be denied," he said, "that past activities of parties often were not in keeping with the essential mission of the diet.

"The new national structure movement aims at superseding old party politics which were postulated upon liberalism. It is essentially national, all-embracing and public spirited.

"It aims at concentration and unification of the nation's entire powers."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

By BARBARA STANWYCK
Motion Picture Actress.
(A "talkie" to vacationing Robbin Coons)

HOLLYWOOD—A director may win an Academy award, he may be praised by critics and his pictures may be box-office smashes, but to have an actor call him the "perfect "actor's director" is the highest compliment he can receive.

For many of us, Frank Capra is the perfect actor's director. What he asks from us is sincerity in our work and respect for our profession, and in return we regard an assignment from him as a trust. This isn't just fancy talk. We know that Capra works on his script for five or six months and that every character is developed to the best of his ability. Therefore, when he chooses an actor for the characterization, it's because of his confidence in the player's ability to portray that role.

That old actor's charge that directors "never understand me," can't be brought against Capra. He never tries to instruct an actor on how to read his lines. There are some things Capra expects an experienced actor to do for himself, and this is one of them. Capra features with detailed care the bits of business that build and develop a character in a story. He prefers his actors to be "natural," believing that the best actor is the one who doesn't appear to act at all. Then by gradual guidance he molds the actor into the characterization as he has visualized it.

Occasionally Capra becomes enamored of some bit of business that he is set on having performed in a certain way. His patience and good humor during rehearsals have endeared him to players. I know of no actor who was made to feel that Capra was holding him responsible for failing to catch the sense or feel of a scene.

Capra has an understanding of actors that is uncanny. Players are the tools with which he works, but he always is conscious that these tools are human beings. He guides rather than directs. You never feel that he is ordering you, but rather that he is helping you to understand the scene. His script is remarkably flexible, with very few stage directions or instructions. He prefers to work out the shadings during shooting, and welcomes suggestions.

Capra is the least conspicuous person on the set. He's as considerate of the actor with one line to read as he is of the star. His ability to approach every new picture as though it were his first is remarkable.

I can say one thing for Capra that I can't for a lot of other people. He never lets personal feeling influence his appreciation of an actor's merit. Our first meeting some years ago, was not the most propitious for I refused to do a test for him. The fact that I had made tests all over town and was now asked to make another made me furious and Capra was no doubt irritated by my attitude.

"No test, no work," he said.

However, he did see a test Alexander Korda had directed and he gave me the role in "Ladies of Leisure," my first for him. Another director might have permitted that resentment to rule me out, but it didn't influence Capra's decision.

NAZIS RESUME FURIOUS RAIDS UPON BRITAIN

Bombs Rain for Two Hours on Coastal Hills; 100 Areas Included in Attack.

town, German bombers escorted by many fighter planes met a fierce anti-air barrage.

(Dispatches from coastal towns this afternoon did not refer to British fighting planes in action against the German craft although, prior to the big German attack on R. A. F. bases fierce dog fights had been reported over Kent.)

Earlier in the day, two German airplane formations that crossed the Kent coast were driven back with losses.

The new assault followed British charges that the German air force had embarked on an indiscriminate bombing campaign, resulting in energetic British measures to counter any threat to civilian morale by raids which seemed aimed more at terrorization than destruction.

Describing today's daylight raids, authoritative quarters said the first formation flew over the south Kent coast early this morning and that later a force even larger flew over north Kent.

Both formations kept steadily on courses inland until engaged by fighter planes from mid-Kent to the Thames estuary, below London.

The daylight raids were resumed after a night in which lone "jitter" raiders bombed more than 100 areas in what the government charged was an indiscriminate bombing campaign.

Three German planes, racing in over the southeast coast, began making smoke signs in the sky and raced away. A few moments later it was seen that they had made a Nazi Swastika cross as a new feature of their terror campaign.

Soon afterward a fleet of 17 bombers, escorted by fighters, appeared high over a southeast inland town. British fighters went to the attack and a british Hurricane fighter quickly shot down a Messerschmidt fighter which crashed in flames in an orchard behind farm cottages.

The raiders flew northward, leaving a trail of bomb explosions, before fighter planes and anti-aircraft fire drove them to sea.

London had had two air raid alarms during the night and German planes, usually operating alone, ranged over all England and northeastern Scotland.

Only a few German planes—one estimate was three—took part in the night's raids on London and a few bombs were dropped. But the planes caused two air raid alarms between 9:30 o'clock last night and 1:10 a. m. today, and the result was that millions of Londoners went to work today after insufficient sleep.

It was made known that the government, in a counter move to this German threat to British morale, had opened discussions with labor unions on a plan for "industrial watchers" in essential war industries.

In event of an air raid these watchers would be stationed in look-out posts while war work continued. If a watcher believed that a direct attack was imminent, he would give the "take cover" warning. Only then would work stop.

It was suggested that the German "nuisance" raids on London were intended first to put a strain on defenses, particularly the air force, secondly to impair industrial efficiency by interrupting production and robbing workers of sleep, and thirdly to shatter the confidence and determination of the country.

Serious Aerial Battle Reported

BUDAPEST —(UNS)— Reports of a serious aerial clash between Russian and Rumanian warplanes were received today from Bucharest.

The report said three Rumanian bombers attacked five Russian fighters near Husi in northern Moldavia. One Rumanian plane was shot down, it was said.

(Editor's Note: An earlier report said Russian warplanes were turned back after an apparent attempt to reach Bucharest.)

winning correspondent for the New York Times who was a passenger, told in a dispatch to his paper how radios on the ship picked up German stations which described the trip as a "wanton voyage" and "criminal folly." Lord Haw Haw, British-born Nazi broadcaster, declared "only a miracle could bring the ship safely through the danger zone."

General hardship due to overcrowding, Tolischus said, was aggravated by much seasickness. Thirty persons were sent to the ship's hospital and two women, who had come aboard ill, died from heart disease, he added.

The "serene confidence" of Capt. B. E. Torning evoked "universal admiration," Tolischus said.

When passing through danger zones during the critical nights the ship flew illuminated American flags and was brightly lighted.

BURIED HOAX COMES TO LIFE

Arizona Man Digs Up 'Gold' Brick In Garden, Learns of Old-Time Swindle.

BENSON, Ariz.—Wiley Langston, digging in his garden, unearthed a large, heavy bar of metal, wrapped in decaying burlap and stamped with the intriguing figures "859 ounces—14603."

It might be—yes, he was sure it was, gold.

Heart-warming mental arithmetic placed its value at approximately $30,0000.

Just to make sure, he took his find to an assayer's office in Tucson. There he learned, amid crashing hopes, that the bar was almost solid copper.

Old timers promptly recalled that some 45 years ago a sly little man came to town and mysteriously approached two business partners with a scheme of easy riches.

It seemed he had some molds of gold bullion which he would sell at a sacrifice because it had been stolen. All the men had to do was buy a bar and re-sell it at the current price of $19 an ounce, which would net them more than $15,003. He asked only a couple of thousand.

The partners bit, the stranger disappeared, and they learned that their purchase was mostly copper.

By common consent they buried their mistake and never mentioned it again.

'KNOW BETTER' DRIVERS CAUSE MOST MISHAPS

That's Assertion of Highway Patrolman In Address At Rotary Meeting.

Normal drivers, who "know better," are responsible for a large majority of traffic accidents, according to R I Governor, of Massillon, state highway patrolman, who was the speaker at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club, held at Westbrook Country club, with Marvin J Cole as program chairman

Contrary to the idea of many people Governor said, drunken drivers "road dopes" and speed maniacs total only seven per cent of automobile drivers and are responsible for 15 per cent of accidents while the other 92 per cent of drivers cause 85 per cent of the accidents

Causes of all traffic accidents were listed in three classes—car, road and driver.

"Cars and roads have been greatly improved," said the speaker 'yet there are more accidents and deaths than ever before'—thus placing greatest blame on the drivers.

There is no reasonable excuse for one-car accidents, Governor contended, as the driver is responsible for the condition of his car and speed should be limited to road conditions.

In the United States one person is killed in a traffic accident every 15 minutes and one injured and sent to the hospital every 30 seconds.

Calling attention to the fact that schools are soon to reopen, Governor asked that special attention be given to the safety of children and urged watchfulness at times school buses are on the highways

"If each and every driver would correct his or her own driving faults there would be no automobile accidents," was the thought-provoking conclusion reached by this highway patrolman after long study of the causes of traffic crashes.

As a special feature preceding the address, Robert C Remy, vice president, who presided at the meeting, conducted a quiz on Rotary information, with 12 members making up two teams captained by William Tawse and Dale Ward

Starting next week meetings will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel

Report Increase In Residential Building In July

CLEVELAND — A strong increase in the valuation of residential building contracts during July gave northern and southeastern Ohio a favorable margin over last year's seven-months' total

Dodge Reports revealed today that last month's residential contract awards were about 90 per cent higher than in the 1939 month In dollars that valuation had a pick-up of $4,278,000

The cumulative total for all residential contracts awarded in northern and southeastern portions of Ohio during the January-through-July period was $44,259,000. In the corresponding period of last year, the total was $42,075,000.

Residential building contracts awarded in 89 of the largest metropolitan areas in the 37 eastern states during the six months revealed an aggregate of $528,538,000, says Dodge Reports There was a gain of $20 000 000, or 2 per cent, over the 1939 half-year total. The corresponding 1938 valuation was $304,201,000

AGE SUBTRACTION

SACRAMENTO, Cal —(UP) — Members of the fair sex have been advised officially that if they feel obliged to subtract a few years from their age, it is better not to do it on any document that may become an official record. Reason: A recent applicant for old age pension had difficulty in establishing her age. It varied from 55 to 70 years.

Juneau's Smoothie Town, But Rest of Alaska's Frontier

JUNEAU, Alaska —(AP)— Like all capital cities, Juneau—which rests in a setting much like Colorado's Grand Lake district—has an air of artificial politeness.

The bellboys at the Baranof hotel (named for a Russian general), like bellboys the world over looking for a tip, will burst into "yes, Mr. Smith" with no provocation whatsoever.

No so, Fairbanks. Fairbanks is frontier. Like as not, if you want your bags carried to your room there, you carry them yourself.

Juneau is the only sophisticate among Alaska's several communities. If the Waldorf can have its starlight roof, the Baranof can have its bubble room. Fairbanks by contrast, takes it hard liquor standing up, and there are none of those funny little dishes of peanuts and popcorn on the bar.

Juneau is like any community of 5,000 persons on the "outside" which has its addicts to tophats and some imported Park avenue glitter. Fairbanks, and to a greater degree Bethel and Nome, are like hard-bitten Texas oil towns. Carry your liquor well, and don't be spoiling for a fight. You'll get it.

ICE PARTICLES GLOW AND FLASH

When 'Cold Enough' They Act Like Tiny Neon Signs, Scientist Says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cracked ice will emit light, both glows and flashes, if cold enough.

The light appears when the chilled ice is ground to bits Whether ice could emit light has been a scientific dispute Experiments proving the ice light are reported by Frances G Wick, of Vassar College, in the journal of the Optical Society of America.

It is necessary to chill the ice to the temperature of liquid air The light is dim, visible only in the dark, after the eyes have become accustomed to dark-seeing.

One form of the ice light is a phosphorescent glow. Its source is unknown

The other is an electrical discharge, called triboluminescence. It occurs as ice crystals break. Apparently some of the energy binding the crystals is released in the form of electricity. This electric charge, striking the air, produces light by the same principle as the glow in a neon light.

Triboluminescence is common in rock candy, and the shades of color even vary with the flavors Sugar gives off this ghost light at room temperatures, when a sugar lump is broken

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1940.

If you can think back to 1917 you'll probably be surprised at the similarity.

People are slowly drifting back to their jobs, and by the middle of September most of them will have recovered from their vacations.

It might be well to keep in mind that a superbomber that can fly from the United States to Europe and back can also fly from Europe to the United States and back.

Defense Is Not Militarism

ONE THING seems to be overlooked by persistent opponents of immediate compulsory selective military service. It is that the proposed law is not a permanent measure. No law enacted by the legislature of a representative government is permanent. The people make the laws through congress and they may un-make them when they see fit. A time limit is contained in the draft bill as written. If Hitlerism is stopped, and if the world revolution he represents is directed into sane and constructive channels, then conscription in the United States can be stopped easily and promptly.

The attitude of the opponents may be completely honest, but to many Americans it looks like a lack of faith in democracy. It implies that our freedom is so slight, our ideals of liberty and justice so shaky, our understanding of democracy so clouded that they could be overwhelmed and lost by a simple effort to prepare for vigorous, national self-defense. Military training need not make militarists of Americans. It never has in the past, and it never will so long as its purpose is defense and not aggression, and so long as it is imposed by a freely elected congress and not by a self-appointed dictator.

Experience Teaches a Lesson

EXPERIENCE is proverbially a "dear teacher," as merchants along Fourth street have learned at considerable cost during the slow progress of street improvement work that has been lagging along for the past two months.

While all street improvement projects in business districts necessarily result in considerable inconvenience and some financial loss to a number of people, the slowness with which the Fourth street re-paving has moved along, as compared with the time that would have been required to do the same work as a regular contract job, can scarcely fail to impress upon all observers that speed and efficiency should be carefully considered in public work that requires closing a main business and traffic thoroughfare in a city.

Mansfield's earlier experience with street improvement projects awarded to reliable contractors, with modern equipment and a working force of experienced men, has been such as to make possible a direct comparison with the slowness that has marked every step of the Fourth street improvement until pouring concrete was started, and even this has not progressed with customary expeditiousness, due to federal agency requirements.

It seems an entirely proper contention that public works projects intended to provide employment for persons inexperienced in the particular kind of work involved, might better be confined to outlying sections rather than those which cause heavy financial losses and long periods of inconvenience to a considerable percentage of the city's population, as a result of an important traffic street and numerous of its intersections being impassable for weeks longer than would ordinarily be required.

Officials Study Parking Meters

WITH bids received for parking meters of various designs, prices and methods of operation, Mayor Locke and Service-Safety Director Crafton will naturally want to give careful study to each of the meters upon which bids were received, before reaching a decision as to the one deemed best for installation on Mansfield streets.

In this study they will fortunately have the benefit of experience of many cities in Ohio and other states which already have parking meters in operation and from which information can be secured regarding meters of various kinds.

There will be a desire on the part of Mr. Locke and Mr. Crafton, of course, to provide Mansfield with what they finally conclude, in their opinion, is the most practical, durable and modern in method of operation of the meters being considered, so that this city may escape the experimentation and sometimes later replacements which marked procedure in some cities that installed meters before the present degree of efficient operation and durability had been reached.

'Average' Drivers Not So Good

ENFORCEMENT and education, two of the "Three E's" of traffic safety, are combined in the work of R. I. Governor, state highway patrolman, who exemplified the educational part of his duties during a talk given yesterday to Mansfield Rotarians.

Thoroughly interested in his work, and earnest in his presentation of facts, figures and incidents associated with traffic accidents and their causes, Mr. Governor reaches the startling conclusion that there would be no automobile accidents IF EACH DRIVER WOULD CORRECT HIS OR HER OWN DRIVING FAULTS!

There are only three causes of traffic accidents, he says—the car, the road and the driver. With better cars and better roads, much of the blame for the ever-increasing toll of highway fatalities and injuries is placed on drivers, who are also held responsible for the condition of their cars.

Drunken drivers, road dopes (those slow drivers who hold the middle of the road) and speed maniacs, seem to constitute only seven per cent of the motoring total and cause fifteen per cent of all accidents, according to statistics quoted. This leaves "average" drivers making up 93 per cent of the total and responsible for 85 per cent of traffic fatalities and casualties.

Fastest speed on the highway ever observed by Patrolman Governor was a woman driving at 97 miles an hour, near Cleveland, and next highest was a man driving between Akron and Canton at 95 miles an hour—neither able to explain the excessive speed.

If Patrolman Governor can be spared from his duties to give similar talks before other civic groups, and at senior and junior high school assembly meetings, it would appear that the educational phase of the traffic safety movement might be given considerable impetus.

It remained for the Toronto Star to explain that Italy's attempt to capture the canal would be "Suezicidal."

Why Don't Dreams Come True?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SUCH gorgeous dreams we have! Such passionate energy and dynamite determination we put into that dreaming! Then why don't our dreams come true?

The answer is simple, but mighty hard to take—

OUR DREAMS DON'T COME TRUE BECAUSE WE DON'T REALLY WANT OR EXPECT THEM TO COME TRUE. AND WOULDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH OURSELVES IF THEY DID.

As dreams they're swell, but as practical plans they're a washout. All of which we know. And yet—

There's young Betty Brown, for example. Betty wants to be a writer. Or rather, dreams of being a writer. It is highly improbable, however, that Betty wants to be a writer or would like being a writer if the chance came. For her idea of writing has no relationship, whatever, to the actual work of writing.

It's a very glamorous affair, that dream. A sort of Hollywood version of a literary career. Incense filled studios. Fascinating, scintillating circles of Bohemian friends. Travel. Adventure.

A swell dream! But it has about as much resemblance to Real Writing as a toasted marshmallow has to a ditch-digging machine. No professional writer on earth ever wrote like that or wanted to. For dreary drilling and downright drudgery, a serious writing career has practically every other job skinned. Moreover, real writers dote on seclusion, obscurity and a general dinginess of "atmosphere" which would give spotlight Betty the jitters in an hour.

No: it's a safe bet Betty wouldn't like being a writer, even if she could. And she couldn't, for she has none of the qualifications. She hates to study. She has no love for words, no compelling interest in people, none of those hungers and urges which lie behind all sincere writing. Books are scenery for Betty; not a vital need.

All of which Betty, in her secret heart, knows perfectly well. As do we all. Then why does Betty—why do we all—go on dreaming, knowing we can never achieve those dreams; knowing, also, that we are passing up real opportunities while we indulge in them?

WE DREAM AS A MEANS OF ESCAPE.

Escape from what? Escape from Reality. The Reality of hard work, disagreeable competition and criticism, monotony, obscurity. Escape from Failure—our own stupidity and cowardice, our own mediocrity.

In real life we're apt to be pretty Small Potatoes. But the stupidest sap can be Big Pumpkins in his dreams, without the slightest effort.

So we dream. We seldom really want to be what we dream. If we did, we wouldn't dream; we'd get busy. And rarely have we the makings to fit our dream. But that doesn't matter, either. The dream is what counts. For the dream is our way out.

We dream on. And, while we dream, real life with its real opportunities slips away. We could have achieved some actual power and pleasure and peace if we had spent the time on living which we've spent in dreaming. But we were too lazy, too conceited, too cowardly, too silly.

And so, like Esau, we "exchange our heritage for a mess of pottage"—and only have a stomachache to show for it in the end.

What's the matter with America and Americans today? That's what's the matter. Trashy movies and magazines have driven us dream-crazy. Real life isn't good enough for us any more. We've got to be Big Shots, even if it's all in our eye!

What happens to a nation or an individual that gets That Way? Plenty! Just stick around. You'll see!

Timely Editorial

Hasty Marriages.

Practically every city in the country has noted a rush to the marriage license bureaus during the past several weeks. In some cities, applications have been up 100 to 200 per cent.

It would be bitterly unjust to assume that in any particular case the object was to secure deferred draft classification.

Yet the timing of this rush of matrimonial ardor certainly suggests that there are many who considered this. There may even be among them some of the young people who have been so insistent in recent years that conditions were so bad that young people could no longer afford to marry, yet who suddenly found it possible, after all.

Marry in haste, says the proverb, repent at leisure. If it be true that any great number of these marriages are being arranged with the cold-blooded object of keeping out of the draft, then 1941 and 1942 will be bumper years in the domestic relations courts.—Newark Advocate.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Bungalow."

So common is the bungalow in seashore and suburban life that we have come to think of it as quite an American institution. As a matter of fact, it is an importation from India, where we must go for the origin of its name.

"Bungalow," that is to say, is the Bengalee bangla, a rural villa, which, in its native state is of light construction, thatched or tiled, of a single story, and usually surrounded by a veranda, affording protection from the sun.

Bungalows in India, which are the residences of Europeans, are of all sizes and styles, some being rather palatial residences.

This Is Ohio

MORE than 175 years ago a band of pilgrim missionaries sought a sanctuary in the Ohio country wilderness.

Three stations were established on the Tuscarawas river: Schoenbrunn, Gnadenhutten, and Salem. Today the visitor may look upon the restored village of Schoenbrunn, near New Philadelphia, and see it as it was in those long-gone days. Not only the dwellings, but the church and school house can be seen on their exact sites and in the exact dimensions. The Schoenbrunn history-saving program is one not only of restoration but one of conservation as well. The museum at the edge of the village contains a large collection of handicraft of that period.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Stars In Your Eyes.

Stars in your eyes my daughter, stars
Of true bright love you know,
As beautiful and I, I too,
Am happy in their glow.

I warm myself by your loves fire,
My heart remembering
That far off time your father said
Words that made my dreams sing

You bring my own love back to me,
Each little incident
Of courtship rings a misty bell,
I see my own content

Of years ago. May you, my child,
As happy be as I
As on the long years through
Your love, too satisfy.

Need Destroyers to Rout Invaders; GOP Regulars Resent Willkie Clubs

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the main reasons why Britain has been so desperately in need of destroyers from the United States is the tactics Hitler is expected to use in landing troops in Britain.

The Hitler technique has been to "soften" Britain from the air by pounding away at the airports, railway stations, docks, navy yards, and factories in order to tie up transportation and paralyze industry.

Then after sufficient softening, a horde of German, French, Dutch and Belgian transports carrying Nazi troops will attempt to cross the English Channel.

This is when Britain will urgently need destroyers. These small, extremely fast vessels, carrying guns large enough to sink troop transports, are exactly the type of warship needed to put to rout an invasion of this kind.

And even if Hitler should land troops on British soil, then there is the problem of feeding them and keeping them supplied with ammunition, replacements, hospital supplies and all sorts of equipment. This is the biggest job of all, and this is where the destroyers come in a second time. A large force of destroyers could cut Hitler's supply ship into ribbons.

Note—In 1927, when Calvin Coolidge called the Geneva Naval Conference to limit the construction of destroyers and cruisers, the British, under Stanley Baldwin, claimed that they needed to increase their cruiser and destroyer strength to 70, instead of reducing it. Economy-minded Coolidge got irked at this, adjourned the conference. Later, the British under Ramsay MacDonald ignored the wishes of the sea lords and agreed to reduce their light sea craft, largely in order to please President Hoover and Henry L. Stimson. But it now looks as if the Brtish should have stuck to their original war plans, despite the United States.

Roosevelt Poses.

WHEN Roosevelt stopped at the White House the other day in between national defense inspections, the photographers had a field day. Not for months have they had a chance to get posed pictures—as distinct from random shots—and they have been clamoring for a sitting.

There were flood lights and flash lights, quick shots and slow shots, news protographers, and portrait experts. No less than 25 men, with all sorts of equipment, jammed the president's office.

It was a hot, sticky day, and the heat from the lights made things worse. The men pulled plates, changed bulbs, elbowed for angles—and perspired abundantly.

"Hey, Mr. President, look this way!" "No, Mr. President, look this way!" The president put on a puppet act of snapping his head from one side to the other, and laughed.

When the flash photos were finished, they made way for the portrait cameras. Looking up at these tall tripods, Roosevelt said: "Oh, these are the so-called artists, eh?"

When it was over, a cameraman who has covered the president for years remarked, "Only trouble was that darn seersucker suit. The pictures won't look very dressy. But there's nothing wrong with his face—he's looking wonderful!"

* * *

Unhappy Regulars.

WENDELL WILLKIE'S novel campaign plan of subordinating the regular Republican organization to the Willkie clubs is continuing to draw fire from the politicos.

On the surface the local boys are accepting the standard bearer's edict, but privately they don't like it at all. They just can't get used to the idea of playing second fiddle to newcomers and outsiders.

This was the chief topic of conversation among the National Committeemen who met in Indianapolis prior to the Elwood ceremonies. They compared notes and found these common grievances:

(a) That in a number of states "malcontent" Republicans, men who had had rows with the regular organization, were flocking into the Willkie clubs. Then from this protected haven they were throwing the hooks into their Republican enemies.

(b) That complaints were pouring in from irate county and district chairmen because they had been asked to leave meetings of Willkie clubs. According to their accounts, when Orin Root, young New York maestro of the Willkie clubs, meets with state leaders he asks all who have official connections with the Republican party to leave.

His explanation is that the clubs are non-partisan and have no tie-up with the regular GOP organization. For party officials to attend meetings would, in Root's opinion, impair the effectiveness of the clubs in winning independent votes for Willkie.

Among county and district chairman that sort of talk does not go down — especially when they get to thinking about patronage and the fact that they have no assurance the Willkie club leaders will not be much closer to the pie counter.

To the regulars, who have been out in the cold for a long time, this is not a happy situation. So they are doing a lot of undercover muttering and demanding that party officials do something about it. But one thing these leaders already have learned is that Willkie is boss.

He is running the campaign to suit himself. Win or lose, Wendell is going to do it his way.

AFL Appeasers.

BILL GREEN doesn't know it, but his AFL building trades department gave its bitter rival, the CIO construction workers union, a nice piece of business recently.

The Cincinnati headquarters of the AFL building unions needed a paint job and called in a friendly local contractor for an estimate. He explained somewhat hesitantly that his contract with AFL painters had expired and hadn't been renewed.

"That's all right," he was told. "Your price is reasonable and as long as you use union painters, go ahead. We have to have this work done right away."

So the contractor did the job—and it wasn't until the bill had been paid that it was discovered the work had been done by CIO painters. When John L. Lewis heard about the incident he grinned: "Looks like appeasement to me."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We can hardly remember when we last talked with a show girl who wouldn't give you an argument over the slightest little thing. There is one on Broadway who dances in a club that features Spanish entertainment, but if she is Spanish, we are a Chinaman. Her name is Althea. That is the only name she has. At least, it's the only one she gives out. There is a wave of that sort of thing. Annabella, the movie actress, and Bokage, the radio announcer. They never use the double name. Althea is like that.

The reason we introduce Althea into this thesis is because she walks around town with a monkey in her hair. It is a little pet miniature monkey no larger than a canary and she claims an Argentinian envoy gave it to her. Probably he did. She is very proud of him (the monkey). She feeds him cooked string beans and apples. She has a string around his neck. The string is also around her own not unlovely throat. "Tootsie-pie," as she uniquely calls the monkey, rides in a little cup in her coiffure. From time to time he emits little squeaks, which startle those who do not know this jungle refugee is there. She says this means nothing, but it is our opinion the little fellow may be seasick from so much bobbing up and down. After all, when you ride around town on a girl's head—especially a girl who knows a lot of people and who likes to wave to people and talk, you are apt to get a good shaking up.

BUT Althea says no. She says she doesn't wear the monk in her hair for "effect" either. We didn't say she did, but she probably guessed correctly that we thought it. "Listen," said Althea, "you get pockets. If I had pockets I would put Tootsie-Pie in a pocket. But I ain't got pockets. I got to put him somewhere, don't I?"

She certainly is right about that. She has to put him somewhere. She can't leave him at home because he is the type of monkey that falls into fits of despondency when left alone. And she can't leave him in her dressing room because he doesn't like the smell of grease paint. That leaves only one out—to tie a string around his neck and let him feather his own nest.

* * *

OF ALL the monkeys on Broadway, and there are a lot of them, we never saw one as small as Tootsie-Pie. His tail is only about two inches long. "Can he hang by it?" we asked.

"Certainly he can hang by it. What do you think this is?" said Althea. For proof she let him swing by his tail from her index finger.

We didn't question Althea any further as to the achievements of this little creature. When we asked if he could swing by his tail her attitude suddenly was that of a mother whose child's capabilities have been questioned. There was a warning to the wise, she said. "Certainly he can; what do you think this is?"

That's what we mean by saying that all these show girls, even the Spanish ones, will give you an argument over the slightest little thing.

A Farmer's Diary

The 'Upton Block'

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ALONG the Juniata river that winds its way through the college town of Huntington, Pennsylvania, I passed a large stone house, severely plain. It had a huge stone chimney at each end. The building stood about 20 feet from the highway, with a whitewashed picket fence corraling the spacious lawn.

Directly in front, the panels turned inward toward the house forming a court. A wooden gate of pickets guarded the stone walk that led to the front porch. Near the center of the curving open space I saw a large canister boulder about two feet square set firmly in the ground. It stood more than two feet high, and a set of narrow steps were chiseled at one side.

As I stood there looking earnestly at this relic, an old gray-bearded man came down the road, leaning heavily on his cane at every step. I greeted him and he opened his toothless mouth that he might hear me better. I pointed to the stone and the narrow steps. He came closer and cupped his right hand to his ear. The corner of his wrinkled lip turned in that direction too.

"Speak loud," he said. "I'm hard of hearin'."

I shouted until the echo of my voice came from the wooded hill behind the house. "What was that stone used for?"

"Oh yes," he smiled, with a twinkle in his eye. "I've lived here eighty years, come September. That's when I was born. That same stone was here then. My grandfather, who was a soldier in the war of 1812, he put it there. He used to call it the 'upton block,' and I know it by that name. It was in use up to the times I used it often myself when I was young. My children wanted to tear it away and make the fence straight, but I didn't let 'em, for then I wouldn't look like home no more."

"But what was it used for?" I shouted again.

"Oh, I see—you want to know how they used it?"

I nodded vigorously.

"Well, in the old days, houses was built along well traveled roads and not everybody had wagons or carts, so they went a horseback. I fetched my wife here, horseback, in my courtin' days. I got on the horse and held him, for he was a frisky four-year-old — a dandy black. She walked up them little steps and I helped her get up behind me. Then when I'd let the horse out on a trot she'd hold on for dear life. I kept him trottin', I still claim 'twas a pleasanter way of goin' than in automobiles. An' it didn't matter how long it took to get some place just so's we were back for chore time."

His old face was wreathed in mirth and the blue faded eyes beamed bright as he reminisced.

CITY PURCHASES DEVICE TO TEST WATER METERS

There Won't Be Any Guessing Now About Accuracy of Measuring Equipment.

The city has a new water meter testing machine and there is no guessing now about the accuracy of the meters in the water department measuring the supply in your home.

The equipment was installed in the meter repair shop several weeks ago on approval and workmen have been making a test of water meters brought in for repair.

Council authorized the purchase of the machine last night by okaying a $175 appropriation.

C. N. Shultz explained to council that the equipment eliminates the question of the accuracy of the measuring devices.

He said where a water customer complained that the meter was running fast that an accurate check on the meter could now be made. The charge he said had been set up of $1 for running a test, if the meter proved to be operating correctly.

Service-safety Director C. M. Crafton predicted a noticeable rise in water bills during future collections because tests on meters had shown that a large percentage of them have been running slow, not recording to full amount of the water consumed.

He said he hoped to have the entire 10,000 meters in the city tested during the next few months.

INSIST PAIN'S STATE OF MIND

Scientists Make Experiment To Show 'Tough Guys' Feel Same Amount.

NEW YORK—Persons who say they are exquisitely sensitive to pain, or that they are average or very insensitive, are only talking about a state of mind and nerves.

They are mistaken in belief that their bodies are more or less susceptible to pain than other persons.

Scientific tests on 150 persons which show this are reported in the journal Science by George A. Schumacher, Helen Goodell, James D. Hardy and Harold G. Wolff of the Cornell University Medical College.

The pain was a measured ray of heat striking a small area on the forehead. The human guinea pigs all gave their opinions of how much hurt. Some were sure they felt the slightest burn, others that they were pretty tough customers.

The instruments, which recorded the amount of heat that caused pain to each person, however, told a different story. The painful heat was always so nearly the same that the slight differences had no meaning.

There was no practical difference between men and women. These experiments measured the "pain threshold"; that is the amount of pain that a person could just recognize.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Two months' treatment at the Lima state hospital has cured a "maniac-depressive psychosis" developed by Ray I. Turk, 47, convicted for the 1932 Ellington apartment fire fatal to 12 persons at Cleveland, the welfare department said today.

Turk, who prison officials reported had been "officious" in performing duties as office clerk at the London prison farm, has been returned there in a "normal mental state," the department said. Officials said Turk had suffered "delusions and false ideas."

A $20,000 expansion program for Grace Gospel church, 85 East Third street, will get under way within the next two weeks, according to the pastor, Rev. H. E. Tropf.

Trustees of the church were authorized in common pleas court yesterday to mortgage the church property up to $20,000 to finance the improvements.

The new auditorium will be 46 by 92, of brick construction and when completed will seat about 575 people. It will be decorated and furnished with new pews and altar, Rev. Tropf said.

S. B. White, Mansfield contractor, will be in charge of the work.

INFORMALITY MARKS SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Club Friends Gather for Reunion; Marriage of Miss Vera Durbin Told; Westbrook Women Win Prizes, Plan Matches.

INFORMALITY marked most of the entertaining in and around Mansfield yesterday as clubs and social groups gathered here and there in and out of the city. An old-time organization—the Pastime club—was revived for a few hours yesterday when former members had a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Glenn Campbell, Lexington avenue road, in honor of Mrs. Fannie Almy, LaCrosse, Wis.

Luncheon was served at noon. Former members in attendance were Mrs. Lewis Huess, Lucas; Mrs. Nellie Staiger, Mrs. William Case, Mrs. Catherine Beelman, Mrs. John Wendland, and Mrs. Stella Heath. Two other members of the original group, Mrs. John Graham, Toledo, and Mrs. William Warrell, Findlay, were unable to attend the gathering.

Announcement was made this morning of the marriage of Miss Vera Durbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Durbin, 565 Springmill street, and William Fensch, son of Mrs. Albert Fensch, 601 Springmill street. The marriage was solemnized May 30 at Russell, Ky., with the Rev. John R. Gilpin, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Fensch are both graduates of Mansfield Senior high school, and he is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

In spite of the damp course and sudden showers, members of the Women's association of Westbrook Country club met at the clubhouse for their regular play. Awards for low net scores were presented to Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, Mrs. L. D. Wright, and Miss Charlotte Feaman. Mrs. T. J. Chamberlain was the winner of the low putt prize for the month.

Labor day a mixed two-ball foursome will be conducted at 2 p. m. at the clubhouse with Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Bacon and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gorman in charge.

Hostesses for the month of September will include Mrs. William A. Springer, Mrs. H. H. Shaw, Mrs. Bacon and Mrs. F. H. Maxwell.

She will be accompanied by five delegates, Mrs. Glenn Marriott, Mrs. L. D. Bower, Mrs. G. E. Coffman, Mrs. Paul Mitchell and Mrs. Sadie Ripper.

During the routine session at the Euclid avenue residence plans were made to have a benefit party Sept. 24 with Mrs. Marshall Moore as general chairman. The fall political campaign was also discussed, and Mrs. Brook was appointed to the Richland county campaign committee in charge of all women's Democratic activities.

The hostess served refreshments after which it was announced that the next regular meeting of the entire club will be held Sept. 3 at the Presbyterian church in Lexington. Mrs. Wilbur Lawrence is chairman for the 6 o'clock dinner.

IF YOU'RE PLANNING to purchase a fur coat this year, you'd best make a selection within the next few days and so take advantage of the price reductions during the annual August fur sales, which are now going on in the downtown stores. . . . Swagger styles apparently will be the most popular in full and three-quarter lengths, with yoke details being featured in some of the backs. . . . The once popular raccoon (which had to take a back seat for a good many years) has been revived and subdued so as to make it very attractive for casual wear. . . . No matter what color and type of fur you like, you'll find something to suit your taste this season, as there's a range of styles in kidskin, Persian paw, squirrel, Persian lamb, mink, skunk, beaver and seal. . . . Many of these furs can be obtained in black, gray and brown, and some coats of mink-dyed muskrat are shaded so that they can be worn equally well with brown or black accessories. . . . Shoulders of this winter's coats are still built up, but not quite so much as previously, and many are collarless.

Marianne

Fall gloves are being shown in both kid and suede, and any number of pairs combine the two materials. . . . Some gloves of suede have kid backs—and in some cases, one or two kid fingers extending into a design down the back. . . . Color combinations for contrast also are being featured—with some of black and red looking especially smart. . . . All of the autumn colors are available in these gloves—and they also predominate in suede and kid belts.

* * *

COSTUME JEWELRY will do wonders for most any ensemble, and if you have one from last year that you'd like to revise, you'll be sure to find just the right touch in some of the local shops. . . . The leaf motif predominates in much of the new fall jewelry, and necklaces, bracelets and pins feature these designs in gold and silver metal, crystal and jet. . . . Catalyn costume accessories also are smart in gleaming black as well as brown and amber wooden effect. . . . Real wood necklaces and pins on leather cords are clever when worn with wool or knitted suits and dresses. . . . For the more formal occasions, cameos (mostly black and white) in pins and pendants are especially attractive.

Is black your favorite color? And do you like something a little out of the ordinary so far as purses are concerned? Well, then, you'll be delighted with those unusual ones of black moire that a downtown store is showing now. . . . They're very dressy, and some of the smaller styles could easily be carried with formal attire. . . . Some of them are trimmed with gold, and all of them have hand-painted flowers in pastel shades on the front. . . . There are envelope styles, pouches and a number that zip all around.

* * *

OF COURSE you'll want your fall dresses to fit perfectly, and if you wear a well-cut slip, I'm sure you will help the situation a great deal. . . . One of the most ideal models I've seen is cut on the straight of the material, so that it won't twist while you're wearing it. It has a bodice top, adjustable shoulder straps, zipper side placket and clip hem—in order that you have it at the most comfortable length. . . . This garment can be purchased in white or tea rose satin as well as all shades of taffeta. . . . Oh yes, and if you like black undies to wear under your fall and winter clothes, you also will like those black satin slips with lace trimmed bodices and hems.

NO MATTER what color you choose as the basic one for your new wardrobe, you'll find Cinnibar make-up ideal to wear with it. . . . This shade has warm golden brown undertones, but at the same time, it is a clear enough red to be worn well with black. . . . The women who manufactures this rouge and lipstick also has introduced a metal make-up box that should answer the needs of any office girl, because it would fit so well in any desk drawer. . . . The pink metal kit contains skin cream, cleansing and foundation creams, hand and skin lotions, powder, lipstick and nail polish—so you'll certainly find it a boon to any day at the office.

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Investigate Schools First

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

REPEATEDLY in this column I have urged youth and their parents to keep on learning entreating those who are not within access to a day or night high school or a day or night college, or unable to find the courses they desire in these schools, to consider the opportunities offered by correspondence schools. It is amazing how many have been able to further their education by pursuing home-study courses.

But inasmuch as there are unfortunately, some correspondence schools which might be classified as rackets, every person considering the taking of a course by mail should be sure he has reliable information about the correspondence school he is considering. The high school principal in your neighborhood is a good person from whom to seek counsel on such matters. Usually he has the facts and is glad to be at your service.

If Counsel Is Needed.

The University of Wisconsin issues a bulletin on "Self-Directed Learning." Let me quote from it:

"New developments in business and industrial fields are exploited by unscrupulous men who urge ambitious young people to enroll in high-priced courses by false representations regarding the employment oportunities available."

Then the bulletin lists several fields "that seem to offer unusual employment opportunities and which currently are being exploited far beyond their practical possibilities." They include television, diesel engines, air conditioning and civil service.

"Preparation for civil service examination through coaching courses is neither necessary nor advisable. Civil service commissions continually warn people that no school can get advance information about civil service examinations. No school is connected with the government civil service.

"In order to protect the public from misrepresentations in these and other fields, all reputable commercial correspondence schools have signed a Code of Fair Practice with the Federal Trade Commission."

Investigate School First.

Agents of reputable schools do not promise jobs nor raise in pay or the like as a result of completion of any course of instruction. "Those that do should be investigated. When pressed to enroll, be sure to get the agent's name, address, telephone number and name and address of the school he represents. Haste in signing should be avoided. . . ."

For reliable information about educational opportunities through self-directed study, ask your high school principal, or write to your state university, or to the U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"But I agree with you," Lillian went on, "that it wouldn't be nice for her to learn of this scarlet fever scare this way. You'd have a sweet tantrum on your hands. All right! Me, I fly. I'll camp up in the hall, and have some nice yarn all spun to give her if she sticks her darling old nose out of the nursery door."

She waved her hand in an airy little adieu, and Katherine spoke quickly as she hurried away.

"What do you think of my notifying Miss Whitlock that your study is ready for her and Edith?" she asked.

"Why, of course just as you think," I answered.

"I'll tell her," Katherine said "that if she needs any help in getting her down here I can furnish it, although Allah he knows there are dozens of other jobs I'd rather tackle."

"You're a most comprehending soul," I told her.

"Thank you," she said, and then she put a compelling hand upon my arm, and drew me back into the solitude of the library.

It was an isolation I had planned, for upon Katie's delivery of the telephone message, I had dispatched her to the kitchen with an injunction to hurry dinner. There was no need for haste with the meal but, mindful of her patent desire to linger in the hall while I talked over the telephone, I had wanted a plausible excuse for banishing her.

"You'll have hours to arrange that Lansfield thing," Katherine said, "but we won't have many chances to talk together alone after this. I heard your question to Bill about Hank, and 'deedooced' a la Katie from your following words that he was all right. But—I'd like to hear just what Bill said."

I knew why she asked the question. She was as keenly interested in Hank as I was, and she had heard only one end of the telephone conversation. Her nurse's training bade her get into her hands all the data concerning Hank which Bill's report could furnish.

"I'll tell you word for word," I assured her, and, putting my memory to work, I gave her Bill's exact words. She listened thoughtfullly, and nodded as I finished.

"That sounds most encouraging," she said. "Of course one never knows but I imagine we've acted in time."

She paused and looked off into space, while the fingers of her right hand beat a tattoo upon the palm of her left, sure sign that she was thinking something out.

"It might not be a bad idea," she said slowly at last, "to have Doctor—" she named the specialist who had seen Hank—"check up on him again while he's in the city. But I'll talk to the doctor first. We don't want to scare Hank."

"No, we mustn't do that," I agreed.

She shot a shrewd glance at me.

"You're going to be on edge until you get this Lansfield thing going," she said. "I'll just dash off now to see Miss Whitlock."

"You don't need to dash," I said, looking at my watch. "Phil generally takes a drive in the afternoon, returning about an hour before dinner. I'll wait a few minutes before I telephone him, and in the meantime I'll give a hand to Katie with the dinner."

"I'll come down and spell you if Miss Whitlock doesn't need me with Ede," Katherine promised, and was as good as her word, appearing in the kitchen a few minutes later with the news that Edith was still asleep. I hurried to the telephone, but when I had reached the switchboard of Philip Veritzen's hotel overlooking Peconic Bay, I was startled to hear his voice blaring into the receiver.

"I can't talk to anyone now, I tell you. Get me that number I gave you, the Grahams'."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, August 29.

Judging by the lunar transits, this day is due to show some very solid and enduring rewards and gains born of hard work, diligence, sound judgment and sustained purpose, which will attract substantial support and tokens of preferment from those in place of power, particularly in financial political or governmental circles. It is a time to aim for such objectives, in which friendship, comradeship and high regard have importance.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year in which there may be definite gains and rewards for industry and application, steadfastness and fidelity, with sound programs and worthwhile objectives. In such the preferment and support of those in power may be depended upon not only to stabilize the fortunes but to enhance personal popularity and prestige. The social element is outstanding and influential.

A child born on this day should be industrious, earnest, faithful to its aspirations and to its fellows, who respond to its affectionate, kindly and dependable qualities and gracious social responses.

All Women Should Walk Gracefully

By MME. QUE VIVE

There's an element of the ridiculous in the appearance of the girl who swings her hips. She makes herself conspicuous, but then maybe she wants to. The passerby takes a glance, smiles, goes his way, wonders why somebody doesn't smack her and make her behave.

The hip-swinger, young or middle-aged, is an incipient waddler. In course of time the waddle bug will get her. And that's pretty terrible. She just pushes along gets where she is going instead of stepping high and happy traveling with spirit and grace. It means that she is relegated to slow movie traffic. The beauty dance goes on but little Waddly isn't in it.

What's the best insurance against the duck-like walk? To pull up the backbone, keep it vibrant, to walk with the knees fairly close together, to point toes straight ahead and march like a soldier in the ranks. Shoulders posed easily chest on the up, tummy flat. Good posture is a cure for many anatomical defects and good posture makes for pretty stepping. No side-to-side swaying, which is an affectation. All affectations are tiresome whether they be affectations of movement, manner or speech. The regular girl is herself, and does not—as Sentimental Tommy expressed it—"put on nairs."

Short-legged girls are more likely to be hip-swingers than tall, lithe-limbed lassies. Of course, the scale-crushers have an excuse. It isn't easy to cart around excess weight. Toes aren't spry when the feminine frame is quilted with adipose tissue. For the sake of health and appearance the plumpies should get down to brass tacks, seek information concerning safe reducing methods and stick to the job of wooing the slenderized silhouette. It can be done and easily. It is nothing more than appetite control and brief periods of daily exercise.

Sitting, walking or standing there should be a sort of splendor about a woman. She gets this valuable beauty asset by correct pose of the body and free, easy movement. There is never a chance of her putting on a hip-swinging act or waddling. And while we are on this subject we'd like to call the attention of the beauty class to the type who toddles. Because one is a woman is no reason why one should be a sissy. These tiny steppers are modernized versions of the clinging vine have no place in a world where women are interested in outdoor sports and appreciate all the blessings that outdoor life brings to human beings.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONSIDER DISTRIBUTION

Honor tricks, quick tricks, sure tricks, high card tricks—or whatever you like to call them, constitute only one of the things you take into account when deciding whether or not to open the bidding. The length of your suits is another factor, and still a third is the question of what suits contain your greatest length. A hand which is predominantly major suit in nature takes great preference over one which has most of its cards in the minors.

South, a canny cardsman, knew that North, a keen partner, would make the correct deductions from his takeout of the No Trump game—that he had greater distributional values than shown but less honor power than at first indicated. He was, of course dead right. South is one of those analytical fellows who has learned that a hand like this slightly below rigid honor trick requirements, makes a much more profitable opening bid, in the long run than a 4-3-3-3 distribution with a bare four-card suit headed by ace-king and a side ace, or containing three aces.

Good play was necessary to make the contract. West's heart J to the Q and A left South in a position where the defenders could peel off one trick in diamonds, one in hearts and two in spades as soon as they got the lead. There was just one chance—to get rid of the heart loser before they scored it. So he tried for it, by tossing the club finesse successfully, then parking the heart on the club A. That made his game sure—a game which depended on one finesse and therefore should be bid.

House Committee Votes Drastic Excess Profits Tax

SEEK PASSAGE OF MEASURE IN NEXT FEW DAYS

Earnings Resulting From War Preparedness Program Affected by Bill.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee today voted formal approval of the new national defense bill which levies a drastic excess profits tax and also provides special amortization privileges for corporations expanding their plants for defense purpose.

Rep. McCormack (D.) Mass., announced that the vote was unanimous.

The action came on the heels of fresh criticism by President Roosevelt of congressional delay in enacting the bill. The president asserted that delay in providing special amortization law for corporations is hampering plant expansion.

House leaders plan to call up the measure tomorrow and to seek passage in one or two days.

Estimates of tax yield under the bill range from $300,000,000 this year to more than $500,000,000 in 1942.

The measure is designed to impose excess profits taxes only upon the increase in profits resulting from expenditure of $14,000,000,000 in the defense program. Thus corporations are given an exemption from excess profits taxes of their average earning during the last four years, except for an additional corporation income tax penalty of 4.1 per cent annually which would bring the maximum normal corporation income tax to 25 per cent.

The excess profits taxes are graduated up to 50 per cent in the case of corporations using the average earnings method of computing tax, and 45 per cent if the tax is superimposed upon return on invested capital. Under the latter method the maximum earning before the profits tax applies are ten per cent.

Property Tax Collection Near $600,000 Mark

Richland county's property tax receipts for the last half of the year neared the $600,000 mark today, and County Treasurer John E. Kolb predicted they would pass that figure by the end of the week.

Collection to this morning amounted to $590,973, including $9,254 added to the total yesterday from mail that was received several days ago and had just been opened.

Kolb said collectors from Shelby and Plymouth have not turned in their reports yet and not all of the mail payments have been tabulated.

He pointed out that payments made now are subject to a 10 per cent penalty which will be added to next year's taxes if it is not paid before then.

TAX SETBACK

Westinghouse Chairman Sees Drop in Earnings.

NEW YORK (AP)—A. W. Robertson, chairman of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, said at a meeting of directors today the company's earnings in the second half of 1940 are likely to be affected substantially because of proposed retroactive new taxes which could not be taken into account for the first half of the year.

Robertson declared as much as $500,000 monthly might have to be set aside in addition to the regular tax accruals of more than $1,000,000 monthly.

PLAN LABOR DAY CLOSINGS

Shops, Stores Will Not Open Monday; No Celebration Being Planned.

Mansfield's observance of Labor day next Monday will be confined largely to closed shops and a closed business district, for no special celebrations have been planned.

Steel workers of the CIO held a district picnic last Saturday at Seccatum park in lieu of a Labor day celebration, and a number of the workers at Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company are out of the city during the company's two weeks' vacation period.

But the city will "close up shop" in recognition of the one holiday in the year that is specifically for the workers of the nation. V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association said today that all downtown stores will be closed all day.

All industrial plants will observe the day, which is a legal holiday, as will banks and all federal workers including WPA and postoffice employes. There will be no delivery of mail except special deliveries, and all postoffice windows will be closed.

City, county and state offices will close also as will most private offices.

SHELBY RULING

Herbert Bars Council Member From City Business.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert advised the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public affairs today that a city councilman who is president of and owner of 40 per cent of the stock of a trucking company may not lawfully transport city property for hire.

The attorney general's office said the opinion related to Councilman Kenneth Roethlesberger of Shelby.

Herbert held that, even in the absence of fraud, conspiracy or unreasonable profits, the councilman would be criminally liable and the city could recover money paid under a trucking contract.

The attorney general was informed that the councilman's firm is the only trucking company in the city, has exclusive contracts with railroad and connecting truck carriers, and has the only license issued by the state utilities commission to operate a common carrier between Shelby and the point of shipment.

EPIDEMIC PEAK

Infantile Paralysis Spread Is Believed Halted.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—Dr. James P. Leake, authority on infantile paralysis, expressed a belief today that the infantile paralysis outbreak here has reached its peak.

Dr. Leake, chief of the bureau of communicable diseases of the U. S. public health service, announced after a 24-hour survey in Huntington, that "there is no cause for undue alarm."

He approved the action of school authorities in 10 West Virginia counties who have postponed scheduled school openings because of the infantile paralysis outbreak. Dr. Leake saw no reason for taking such action on a state-wide basis.

Raleigh county's board of education last night joined nine other counties in postponing its school opening. The number of children affected now exceeds 200,000.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION CONCLUDES SESSION AT TOLEDO

The convention of the Ohio department, American Legion, ended in Toledo today after Retiring Commander R. B. Gardner of Mansfield told the delegates that the state organization had a membership of 50,450, which is less than 200 under its all time high since the ending of the World war.

Gardner will be succeeded by Ralph Stone, Conneaut, who was elected yesterday afternoon without opposition. Gardner retains his office until Oct. 1, and will head the Ohio delegation to the national convention in Boston Sept. 25, 26 and 27.

Other officers elected late yesterday were Floyd Heartpence, Westerville, vice commander; Glen Huber, Hicksville, treasurer; Ignatius Lee, Hillsboro, chaplain, and Eli A. Jensen, Springfield, national committeeman. Mrs. J. E. Giffin, Bellaire, was elected president of the American Legion auxiliary.

Following the election of officers the Legion body unanimously adopted a resolution urging immediate legislation providing for selective military training.

Legionnaires did not specify the Burke-Wadsworth bill for compulsory training, but voted for the procurement of an army in accordance with the recommendations and proposals of the war department.

The convention turned down, after a heated argument, a proposal made by the Middletown post to do away with the cash and carry provision of the neutrality law, and to give "all possible aid and the maximum supply of all things needed for the prosecution of the war to Great Britain with or without cost."

Other recommendations included the Legion's annual plea for adequate national defense; a junior R. O. T. C. for high schools; making R. O. T. C. training compulsory for all colleges and universities supported wholly or in part by public funds, and that the Seifert bill be re-submitted to the Ohio general assembly at its next session.

This bill provides that all political parties or organizations which do not recognize the Bill of Rights and the Constitution, and which seek to overthrow the American form of government, be barred from places on Ohio ballots.

Berlin Gets First Day Air-Raid Scare But It's Mistake

BERLIN — (INS) — Germany's capital had its first daylight air raid warning of the war today—but it was an error.

The sirens rang in Berlin at 8:55 a. m. (2:55 a. m. EDT). Five minutes later the all clear signal was given. Later officials stated the warning was "due to a technical mistake."

Simultaneously it was announced that German bombers during the night raided aircraft plants at Derby and Birmingham in England, inflicting heavy damage upon a factory producing spitfires.

Heavy explosions and fires were observed at the plants, the statement said.

It added that military objectives at Southhampton and the naval yard at Chatham also were damaged. British anti-aircraft fire was termed "ineffective."
